

Art sale held

Mrs. Stevens McClure, Route 3, right, discusses an art display with Mrs. Kay Greer, Route 3, at the Sedalia Art Association's benefit art and craft sale Friday in the Missouri Public Service Co. building, Fourth and Ohio. Local artists donated paintings, drawings and crafts to be sold to the public, with the proceeds from the sale to be used toward a scholarship for a State Fair

Community College art student. Mrs. Sherri Schott, president of the association, estimated that about 80 pieces of art were on display and that 75 per cent had been sold before noon, with a total of $325 collected at that time. Mrs. Schott said it was hoped the sale, the first of its kind in Sedalia, would bring in about $400. (Democrat-Capitol Photo)

Bond has confidence in welfare director

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — Gov. Christopher S. Bond said today he had "full confidence" in state Welfare Director Bert Shulimson and would not ask him to resign.

Both houses of the Missouri Legislature have set up committees to investigate reports of overpayment and fraud in the welfare division.

The governor told a news conference his office discovered problems in the division's quality control section when he was auditor.

Personnel from the state Budget Office and the persons from outside state government, in the loaned executive program, have been looking into welfare division procedures.

On other matters, Bond said he was happy the House had approved a campaign financing reform law, which he described as his No. 1 priority.

"Perhaps the most significant provision is the establishment of a commission to be nominated by the Supreme Court and appointed by the governor," he said. "This means for the first time Missouri will have an independent commission with the power to investigate and prosecute violations."

House Speaker Richard Rabbitt, D-St. Louis, and the majority leader Kenneth Rothman, D-Clayton, have sponsored campaign reform legislation for four years.

Bond said he didn't like a section in the bill allowing corporations to contribute to campaigns. Labor organizations are prohibited by federal law from contributing.

Instead, he said, he favors tax deductions for campaign contributions.

Bond also said the total campaign spending limit "should be more realistic."

The formula in the bill would limit the gubernatorial candidates to about $287,000 apiece. That's half of what Bond spent on his gubernatorial campaign.

He has suggested a limit of $450,000 for each gubernatorial candidate.

On other matters Bond said:

—Rep. William E. Blackwell, D-Hermann, made "political statements" in criticizing liberal policies of corrections chief George M. Camp. Bond said the statements were inaccurate and that Blackwell should have talked to Camp or himself before making statements to the news media.

—He favors having the lieutenant governor and governor run as a team but the lieutenant governor should still preside over the Senate, and "I don't think it makes sense to appoint the lieutenant governor as director of a department," as would be done under a proposed constitutional amendment.

—He favors eventual control of higher education in the state under one super board which would set the policy on residence centers, new four-year institutions and would have authority to overrule the boards of regents and curators. He repeated his support for the University of Missouri taking over the Independence Residence Center because "it's there. It's a fact."

—The Missouri Senate's resolution telling Atty. Gen. John C. Danforth to reverse his opinion upholding secrecy of agriculture department milk records is meaningless," Bond said. "If they want to show legislative intent, they'll have to change the law."

He repeated his statement that President Nixon should not resign. "To resign does not prove anything," he said. "I've always said he should make a full disclosure. I can't say whether or not he should be impeached."

Views on city 'needs'

Mayoral candidates speak out

Candidates for mayor of Sedalia faced voters Thursday evening at a meeting sponsored by the Sedalia-Pettis County League of Women Voters.

Questions were put to them by an audience of approximately 60 persons at the Municipal Building.

Mayor Jerry Jones, a Republican, said Sedalia has been in a "state of drift for the past few months," and that city leaders should recognize that problems exist and seek answers for them.

Jones stressed a need for more service to the city's elderly and the construction of a comprehensive storm sewer system.

Jones said he doesn't feel "that everything is fine, that we're doing all we can." More effort is needed, he said, and credited what improvements the city has made to "business know how and hard work."

Also mentioned by Jones was the idea of Sedalia moving into the area of recycling such things as newspapers and junk cars to generate more revenue. The mayor said other cities have done this.

Democratic candidate George Thompson listed among his priorities for upgrading community services the need for increased "harmony" between the mayor and City Council, the upgrading of the police department, and the need for an economic development director.

Thompson said that if he were elected mayor he would be instrumental in hiring the economic director. Thompson also restated that he would not now favor abolition of the Economic Development Board, which he had earlier advocated.

Thompson also stressed a need for caution in the way federal revenue sharing funds are used. He cited instances of how federal funds were used to begin programs and then later the funds were cut off by the federal government.

Independent Charles B. Lee said his main concern was better police protection. "We all know what needs to be done," Lee said. Later he said he would want investigation into certain establishments in the city and determine "why they are able to operate without any harassment whatever." Lee also said all types of crime, not just prostitution, need better enforcement.

Lee also said he would work to implement beautification of the city. Sedalia "has many eyesores, and most of them are in my community," the northside resident said.

Lee said he would favor a fulltime mayor even though such a move would eliminate him from consideration for the job. Lee has previously stated that he would not work fulltime, if elected, because of a willingness to keep his present job.

Later in the program all three candidates for mayor fielded written questions from the audience.

In answer to a question on how many hours per week he would devote to the mayor job, Thompson said: "I intend to be here as many hours as it takes." He said he opposed setting specific hours for the mayor. Thompson also said he would continue the city's taxi assistance program for the elderly and would advocate improved services to the elderly.

On a question asking how the city's black community could be brought more into the mainstream of activity, Jones said ways should be sought to stimulate more interest among blacks in city government. In reply to another question, Jones explained briefly what improvements have been realized with revenue generated from the one-cent city sales tax. He cited tax reductions, a new swimming pool at Centennial Park and the new Municipal Building, among others, as achievements made possible through the added tax money.

Lee also said that better jobs for Sedalia blacks are needed to bring them more into the mainstream of the community.

Council hopefuls are quizzed at 'Know Your Candidates' meeting

The Candidates for City Council were quizzed Thursday night at the League of Women Voters' "Know Your Candidates" meeting at the Municipal Building.

All council candidates were present except Second Ward Democrat Ira Knox, who said he had an earlier commitment.

First Ward incumbent Democrat Jesse "Sonny" Robinson said he favored hiring an economic development director.

First Ward Republican hopeful Allen L. Hawkins said "I definitely feel Sedalia needs a fulltime mayor — but only if the people in my ward want it."

Hawkins also said the "time has come to curb the upsurge of organized prostitution and other crime in Sedalia." Hawkins served four years on the Police Personnel Board.

First Ward independent Norman D. Capps said he would include hospitals, libraries and recreational areas in his priorities, if elected. Capps also said that if a city has the right to annex an area "then they have the obligation of providing services for that area also."

Capps also said he saw a need for a better storm sewer system in Sedalia.

Second Ward Republican hopeful Lyle McMullin said he was interested in acquiring more industry for Sedalia to help more local people remain in the area.

Third Ward incumbent Democrat Bob Wells said that the council has worked to upgrade services as much as possible. He said that he had worked successfully for abolition of the fee for garbage collection. Wells also had good words for the Sedalia fire department. "We have the best personnel on the fire department that we could hope to have," Wells said.

Wells' opponent, Republican Don Carver, expressed a need for a fulltime mayor. He also said, "we owe people on South 65 fire hydrants."

In the Fourth Ward, incumbent Democrat Lee Garrison defended the Sedalia police force, saying "they do a very fine job." Garrison also said Sedalia's street and alley maintenance compares favorably with other cities.

Republican challenger Robert Eidson, running in the Fourth Ward, also stressed law enforcement. He said, "it's time to stop pampering people who break the law." Eidson said he would advocate a "well staffed, educated and disciplined police force." He also called for even-handed treatment of those who break the law.

Eidson, who earlier organized a petition drive in favor of the fulltime mayor issue, refused comment Thursday on the mayor controversy. "It's a dead issue now," he said.

Also included in the program was Ralph Hamlin, former chief of police, and Republican candidate for police judge.

Hamlin, currently employed on the security force at Central Missouri State University, said he would run a "tough" court, sending chronic drunk drivers to jail instead of only fining them.

Hamlin also said he would work to initiate a night court one day a week so persons would not need to miss work to appear in court. He also called for more equitable treatment of offenders in police court.

Hamlin's opponent, incumbent Democrat Lawrence N. Englund, did not appear.

Report on Nixon's homes is labeled 'absolutely untrue'

WASHINGTON (AP) — A House subcommittee's report that $17 million in taxpayer money has been spent on President Nixon's homes "is absolutely untrue," the subcommittee's senior Republican member said today.

The Republican, Rep. John Buchanan of Alabama, charged a "political witchhunt" and accused subcommittee Democrats of distortion and unfairness in the report approved Thursday on the President's homes in San Clemente and Key Biscayne.

The White House earlier called the report a deliberate deception.

What began as a subcommittee investigation on government spending on all presidents' homes, Buchanan said at a news conference, "has degenerated into the worst political witchhunt that I have seen in all my time in Congress."

Buchanan contended the $17-million figure is distorted because, he said, only $1.2 million has been spent directly on Nixon's homes and property "and all of that is for the protection of the President."

He said he believes the subcommittee's $17 million "is high" even when counting all military and civilian salaries and all other costs directly and indirectly connected with the homes, as the report does.

Disputing the report's allegation that some of the $17 million was "loosely spent," Buchanan said a General Accounting Office report released in December concluded less than $70,000 of the spending was open to any question.

Chairman Jack Brooks, D-Tex., disclosed brief highlights of the report Thursday before his House government activities subcommittee approved it on a straight 6-4 party line vote.

Brooks told newsmen he does not consider the report a shocker, but rather a delineation of facts that came out during his subcommittee's public hearings in October.

The report makes no accusations against Nixon, according to the subcommittee's senior Republican, Rep. John Buchanan of Alabama.

But Republicans strongly objected before the vote to subcommittee action on the report, challenging its findings and contending they didn't know it existed until Monday.

Brooks gave no details except to say the $17 million figure was reached by adding $7 million in salaries and costs for all federal employees at, or associated with the homes to the $10 million cost previously estimated by the administration.

Prisoners release hostages

NEW YORK (AP) — Three accused bank robbers trying to break out of the Federal House of Detention surrendered today and released four captive guards after winning a promise of amnesty during a night of negotiations.

Using guns sneaked through an outside window Thursday night, the inmates had planned a violent escape, according to the warden of the holding facility for federal prisoners in lower Manhattan.

But they abandoned a breakout after foreseeing failure, Warden Louis J. Gengler told newsmen shortly after the prisoners gave up at 9 a.m. Instead, they corralled seven guards, three of whom managed to escape.

Gustave Weiss, lawyer for one of the inmates, said U.S. Atty. Paul J. Curran had informed him that the men would not be prosecuted for the escape attempt "as long as the men surrendered and the guards were not injured." Curran said the bank robbery charges would stand.

The three men were identified by federal officials as Ernest Moore, John Boston and Stephen Chin.

The breakout attempt at about 9:30 p.m. Thursday brought hordes of city policemen and FBI agents with bullet-proof vests and shotguns. Helicopters hovered over the 61-year-old, four-story detention center at the Hudson River waterfront.

A federal agent said "someone who knew what they were doing" broke half-inch-thick glass in a street-level window of the officers' mess.

The window of 6-inch-square glass bricks, facing West 11th Street, was smashed by "someone on the outside that knew exactly where the officers' mess was," the agent said.

Now she's singing His song

By TERRY ANNE MEEUWSEN

Being Miss America doesn't give you that free ride on an easy road through life like many people think. There has been nonstop traveling — one night an appearance in Cincinnati, the next morning a parade in Los Angeles.

Many times it's been difficult for me to be pleasant and cheerful when I know the tensions of a speech or a show are just around the corner. Yet during this year when I've felt down, I've been thankful that there's been a Person around to hold my hand, to pick me up — and it's a thankfulness that I've not always known.

Early in 1971, I was traveling with a singing group. On the nightclub circuit I felt purposeless and irresponsible. The false aura of the show business world carved a deep, empty hole in my life.

One night we were playing a club in Reno, Nev. At the end of every act all the group members would go out into the audience and pass out pictures.

We were doing that when suddenly this young guy in the audience, all dressed up in hippie garb, handed me a booklet of the Gospel of St. John. Later he met me backstage.

He came right out and asked me if I knew Jesus Christ. I was flustered and confused so I hurried off without answering.

A week later we were playing in Plainview, Tex. Not long before, a girl named Linda had joined the group. That afternoon, before our concert, I was looking around for her. When I asked where she was, someone told me she was witnessing at a nearby college.

Witnessing? I didn't even know what that word meant. When someone explained it to me, I was amazed — that someone my age, someone I could relate to and someone I actually knew could talk out in the open about Jesus Christ.

When we were through, I went down to a nearby hamburger place for something to eat. The place was jammed but I found an empty seat. Several college students came over to me and asked if I was with the group. When I said I was, they told me they had heard Linda that afternoon.

As I munched French fries, the students began telling me what Linda had said. Oh Oh, I thought, here comes that Reno business again. It was something different though. They began telling me Christ was a real person, a Person who could take away your troubles and could give you confidence.

Later that night in my motel room I knew I had found something. Sitting on my bed, I thought of my own life.

I had been raised in a Christian home and had attended church throughout my 22 years; yet I never had thought of Christ as Someone who could actually be with me and give me direction. From that night on, I began reading the Bible and praying for God's guidance.

Soon after that I left the group and something amazing began happening to me. I found myself less self-centered and more aware of others and their needs. My prayers for myself were simple. I wanted professional voice lessons but didn't have the money.

Soon though, I entered a local pageant in my home state of Wisconsin and I hoped that by winning I might be provided with enough funds. But I also prayed that somehow I might be able to use my new-found confidence in some way other than just for myself.

At the local pageant I happened to meet a young girl entrant. She was really distraught and insecure. When I got to talking with her, she told me she didn't know what she was doing there. She had an older sister who was much prettier.

"Terry," she told me one night during preliminaries, "I just don't feel I can do anything."

"Look," I said, "there is a way." I began to tell her what those kids back in Texas had told me. Although she didn't win, she came up to me afterward and touched my arm. "Terry, it's funny, but for once I actually believe in myself and what I'm doing."

When I think back over all the things that have happened to me in the past year, my gratitude rushes back to those kids in Texas who brought me to Jesus Christ. Through Him, I've had dreams come true and been able to cope when things were shaky.

I'm thankful I've been in a spotlight where others can hear my new song — His song — and I'm singing it every moment I can.

To sing in LaMonte

The Gospel Continentals, a singing group from Franklinton, La., will perform at the United Methodist Church in LaMonte at 8 p.m. Sunday. The Continentals have made more than 200 radio and television appearances the last two years.

Church news

SWEET SPRINGS — "Rewards of Reverence" will be the sermon topic of the Rev. Paul D. Burton at the Sunday morning service at the First Christian Church here.

The Rev. Lawrence R. Stewart will preach on "Calvary Covers It All" at the Sunday morning service at First Baptist Church. The evening message will be about "Tears of Concern."

The Rev. Charles Hendrickson, pastor of Calvary Baptist Church, has selected "An Old-Time Revival" as his sermon topic for the 10:45 a.m. Sunday worship service. The young people's choir from the First Baptist Church at Branson will sing during the service.

At 7:30 p.m. Saturday, a gospel concert will be held at the church, presented by a Rockford, Ill., young people's choir.

Two musical groups from First Baptist Church will perform at the 7 p.m. Sunday service at Maplewood Church. The groups are "The Messengers" and "The Seekers." Ben Embree, a Maplewood Church member and a missionary appointee to Switzerland, will be the speaker.

Ben Embree: 21-year-old missionary

Twenty-one-year-old Ben Embree, Route 5, will soon become one of the youngest missionaries from the United States.

Embree, son of Lery Embree, will leave Sedalia next week for a six-month missionary term in Switzerland. He will serve with Child Evangelism Fellowship, an inter-denominational, worldwide ministry among children.

Maplewood Church plans to honor the young missionary with a "Ben Embree Night" Sunday.

Embree last summer was one of about 30 persons from Maplewood Church who helped build a church for a missionary in Guadeloupe, French West Indies. There, he got a first-hand impression of overseas missionary work.

"This was a great encouragement," he said, "learning that these people (the Guadeloupeans) and we were one in the Spirit."

Embree, a 1970 graduate of Smithton High School, was among the nearly 15,000 youths who attended Urbana '73, the largest student missionary conference the world, at Urbana, Ill. He attributes much of his missionary zeal to the Urbana conference.

Embree also is a youth group sponsor and instructor of an adult course at Maplewood Church.

Student reports

"The Lord is My Shepherd?" will be the sermon topic Sunday of the Rev. Roger Sonnenberg, pastor of Our Savior Lutheran Church.

The Rev. Roger Williams, pastor of Broadway Presbyterian Church, will continue his series of Lenten sermons Sunday with the topic, "Practice, Practice, Practice."

Harlan Rossman, son of Mr. and Mrs. B. D. Rossman, 903 West Seventh, is one of three Central Missouri State University students nominated for outstanding graduate student honors in the Department of Criminal Justice at CMSU.

A graduate of Smith-Cotton High School, he received his B.A. degree from the University of Missouri, a B.S. degree and a Master of Science Degree from CMSU.

To be named an award nominee, a graduate student must maintain a grade point average of at least 3.3 on a 4.0 scale.

Two Sedalia students at Southwest Missouri State University recently were admitted to the teacher education program at the college. They are Debbie Ann Eckhoff, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. V. B. Eckhoff, 1215 South Barrett, and E. Deann Kreisel, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph H. Kreisel Sr., Route 3.

Miss Eckhoff is a business education major and a 1971 graduate of Sacred Heart High School, and Miss Kreisel is a physical education major and a 1972 graduate of Smith-Cotton High School.

religion

Baptists plan revival at Calvary Church

The Rev. Jim Hylton, a native of West Plains, Mo., will lead the Calvary Baptist Church revival that starts Sunday and ends March 31.

Mr. Hylton has been a pastor of Baptist churches for 17 years and his last pastorate was at the First Baptist Church in West Plains. Since 1969, he has spent all of his time as an evangelist and has also conducted crusades in Australia, Taiwan and India.

His first service at Calvary Baptist Church will be at 7 p.m. Sunday. Services throughout the week will be held at 7:30 p.m. daily. He will also offer lessons from the book of Joshua at 10 a.m. Monday through Friday.

To speak

The Rev. Everett L. Ward, an Assemblies of God Missionary to Paraguay, will be the guest speaker Sunday morning at the First Assembly of God, Sixth and Summit.

Church intervention is not always a good tool

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
AP Religion Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — The churchmen and the banker disagree.

Your loans "retard the day of justice," the churchmen told the banker.

"We don't agree at all," said H.E. Ekblom, president and chairman of the board of the European-American Banking Corp.

Such religious initiatives in the corporate arena have multiplied lately through church share-holding leverage and other means, seeking to inject church principles into commercial policies and conduct.

Sometimes the religious groups win a point they consider of moral concern, such as steps to protect the environment.

But often interventions by churches are shunted aside as impractical or erroneous. But they keep it up.

In an "open letter" to the European-American Banking Corp., 10 top Protestant, Roman Catholic and Eastern Orthodox leaders said the bank has arranged loans totalling $200 million to the South African government and its agencies since 1970, and added:

"We believe your bank's loans directly undergird that country's white supremacist policies. As religious leaders in this country, we implore you to end your complicity in racial oppression and cancel these loans."

Ekblom, asked to comment, said "the bank regrets that these people don't like what we're doing," but added: "We have a policy of dealing any place where sound loans can be made and where good relationships exist."

Disagreeing with the churchmen's contention that the loans subsidize "oppressive racial policies," he said that "economic ostracism is not the answer to improve the lot" of South Africa's 80 per cent black population.

"The best way to improve their lot is through economic growth and employment," Ekblom said. "It's silly to think otherwise."

Peaches 'probably' damaged by weather

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Orchardists say the peach crop probably has been damaged by this week's cold snap, which came after warm weather had caused the buds to flower prematurely.

Norman Stephenson estimated that 10 per cent of his 6,000 peach trees were damaged by temperatures that dipped into the teens. But he said apples haven't been hurt.

The cold weather is "a disaster as far as we are concerned," lamented Dorothy Marshall, owner of Belton Landscaping and Nursery.

Greenhaw preliminary is scheduled

(Democrat-Capital Service)

STOCKTON, Mo. — Terry Greenhaw, 19, a former Clinton resident, is scheduled for a preliminary hearing next week on charges of kidnapping and slaying his estranged wife. However, the hearing may be delayed because Greenhaw was sent to a state hospital for psychiatric examination.

Greenhaw was ordered to the state mental hospital in Fulton, when he was arraigned March 11. Lewis B. Huff, Greenhaw's court-appointed attorney, said he did not object to the state's request for a psychiatric evaluation. One of its purposes is to see if Greenhaw is mentally competent to aid his defense.

Mrs. Lee Ann Greenhaw, 16, was six months pregnant when she disappeared from her parents home Feb. 22 in Eldorado Springs, Mo. She had been living with her parents since leaving Greenhaw in November.

Mrs. Greenhaw was last seen in an El Dorado Springs restaurant where her mother worked. She met Greenhaw there to collect support payments. Her body was found March 8 in a roadside ditch about three miles from El Dorado Springs.

Greenhaw was also arrested on charges of receiving narcotics stolen last fall in an El Dorado Springs drug store burglary. Judge H. A. Kelso, Nevada, Mo. is scheduled to set a date Monday in Cedar County Circuit Court for Greenhaw's trial on charges of receiving the stolen narcotics.

The Eunice Opfer trust fund reached $2,559.85 Thursday afternoon, Mrs. Edwin Taylor, head of the fund raising effort for the First Christian Church, said.

Mrs. Opfer, 168 Autumn, and her five children, were seriously injured in a two-car accident Friday night.

Mrs. Taylor said $1,226.93 of the amount was collected by patients in the Heber Hunt Elementary School district.

Mrs. Taylor also announced that a mothers' march for the Opfer family will be held March 29 and 30. Volunteers should contact Mrs. Herman Arens at 826-8380, she said.

Costume jewelry taken from shop

Thieves took a large assortment of costume jewelry and about $10 in change from Jan's Home Interiors, 710 West 16th, sometime during the early morning hours Thursday.

According to the police report, the burglars broke a window on the west side of the building and went through B & B Specialties, a store connected to the back of Jan's, to gain access to the interior shop.

The change was reported taken from a coin box on a desk and the jewelry, valued at almost $200, from the top of the desk.

Lyles Cleaners, 420 South Engineer, was the target of burglars sometime Thursday night.

A window on the west side of the building was broken out to gain access. The building was ransacked, according to police, and 33 blank checks are missing.

Fire protection may now be offered in subdivision

The approval Wednesday by the Missouri Public Service Commission of water and sewer system licenses for the Maplewood Service Co., will mean comparatively lower water rates and the installation of fire protection service in the area, it was reported Friday.

In an effort to further insure the continued supply of water to the area, Monsees Realty Co., the subdivision developer, earlier sought to establish a public water district to serve the subdivision and outlying areas. However, after it was determined that the subdivision would probably be served more economically and adequately by its own public utility district, the Maplewood Homeowners Association voted in October to form one.

It was stated then that, in addition to the comparatively lower water rates, the utility district would be able to afford fire protection facilities which the county water district would not. Also, developer Hank Monsees indicated, the anticipated heavy growth of the subdivision would be better served by a public utility, rather than a water district.

Tony Monsees, an official of the development firm, Friday said residents will be charged for water consumption on the basis of meter readings, rather than the flat-rate formula now in effect.

Also, he said, the MPS approval will mean the eventual construction of a water tower supply system which will replace the horizontal tank system currently in use. The approval of the district will have no immediate effect on the subdivision sewage operation, he added.

While indicating the company hopes to have individual water meters installed by early summer, Monsees said it was impossible at this time to estimate a timetable for other developments.

Currently, there are 99 homes in the subdivision, which was opened in the fall of 1970.

Wednesday's ruling also had a direct effect, although in a negative sense, on efforts to organize a water district in eastern Pettis County.

Without the subdivision as part of the district, a $274,000 Farmers Home Administration loan secured last May to help finance the district would be voided, Lloyd Lewellen, secretary for the water district steering committee, said.

This is true, he explained, because the district must meet certain population density standards in order to keep the loan. The subdivision composed 99 of the 235 proposed district members.

"We're either going to have to come up with about 100 more persons . . . in a fairly close area or else refund the money," Lewellen said. This money, he said, consisted of $35 fees collected from persons interested in joining the district. This sum, estimated at $4,375 was to be used to defray architect's fees, legal expenses and possible election costs.

Approval of a water district would have to come from district residents in an election, Lewellen said.

A decision on whether to scrap their plans is expected to be made by the steering committee at a meeting during the first week in April, Lewellen said. He also indicated that the $274,000 loan may not be enough to cover the project costs due to inflation.

First public appearance since kidnap attempt

LONDON (AP) — Princess Anne and her husband made their first public appearance today since the bloody kidnap attempt against her.

Police uncovered a possible hideout where she might have been held captive about 10 miles from Anne's home.

Security measures were tightened as Anne and her husband, Capt. Mark Phillips, were driven 75 miles from Sandhurst Military Academy outside London to Great Somerford, his home town, keeping a long-standing date to receive wedding presents. They were married Nov. 14.

The couple escaped injury Wednesday when a gunman forced their limousine to a halt 150 yards from Buckingham Palace and pumped bullets into it. Her bodyguard and three other persons were wounded.

Police raided a house in Fleet and asked neighbors about a young man who rented it a week ago. The Evening Standard newspaper said detectives believe Anne might have been taken there if the kidnap attempt had been successful.

The Sun newspaper reported that Anne told a friend the gunman threatened to shoot Phillips. The Sun said the gunman tried to pull Anne from the car, grabbing her by one arm while Phillips held on to her by the other arm.

"I thought we were dead," the Sun quoted Anne as saying.

Official reports said the assailant couldn't open the locked car doors, and a policeman's tackle brought him down.

Three pairs of handcuffs and a rambling letter demanding ransom of $4.6 million for the princess were found in the as sailant's rented car.

A 26-year-old unemployed laborer, Ian Ball, appeared in court Thursday on a charge of attempting to murder the royal bodyguard. He was ordered held in jail for a week while Scotland Yard continued its investigation of the first attack on a member of the royal family since 1939.

Police would give no information about Ball, but informed sources said they were trying to discover how he got nearly $700 worth of 10-pound notes that were found on him. They said the car had been rented in the name of John Williams, a named used by Ball in correspondence he received at a mail-reception agency in London.

Ten million birds guests of honor for Maryland 'show'

GRACEHAM, Md. (AP) — Ten million pesky birds will be guests of honor for the biggest sound and light show in Western Maryland since Civil War battles at nearby Gettysburg and Sharpsburg.

Millions of blackbirds, grackles and starlings are roosting in a 60-acre pine grove and sometimes blot out the sun when they swoop down into the trees. Officials hope to scare them away.

They postponed the opening of the show from Thursday to Friday because of rain. Tonight they hope to be able to blast away with fireworks, machines generating high-frequency noises and devices to explode propane gas.

Dr. Kenneth L. Crawford, chief veterinarian for the state health department, told a community meeting Wednesday night that the show might scare some birds into flying as far as 600 miles or only a few hundred yards. The meeting still voted 224 to 4 to try the plan.

The officials plan to start the show about 7 p.m., just before the birds return from a day's foraging for food.

The show is to be repeated twice Saturday and again Sunday for the birds which stay on to watch the fireworks.

"If this doesn't work, I don't know what we will do," the veterinarian said.

President's popularity sees new lows in polls

NEW YORK (AP) — President Nixon's popularity has reached all-time lows in two recent polls.

Only 25 per cent of those surveyed in a Gallup poll approved of the way he's doing his job, and only 26 per cent in a Louis Harris survey approved of the President's performance.

A Harris poll in February gave Nixon a 29 per cent positive rating and a February Gallup survey found 27 per cent in approval.

The Harris poll showed 71 per cent gave Nixon a negative rating, while only 47 per cent said that he should resign. Forty-four per cent were opposed to his resignation, with 9 per cent undecided.

The Gallup poll showed 64 per cent disapproved of Nixon's performance.

Harris said the percentage favoring Nixon's resignation has not varied greatly in more than three months.

"It is apparent that the public would prefer to wait for the results of the impeachment proceedings now under way before the House Judiciary Committee rather than have the President voluntarily resign from office," he said.

The pollster said that Watergate-related indictments against former White House aides contributed to the plunge in Nixon's popularity.

Those approving Nixon in a Gallup poll at the beginning of 1974 were 28 per cent. By contrast, another Gallup poll in January of 1973 on the weekend of the signing of the Vietnam cease-fire indicated 69 per cent thought Nixon was doing a good job.

According to Gallup, the recent survey showed Nixon's greatest support was in the South, where he has made many personal appearances. In the South, 31 per cent approve of the President. Only 20 per cent expressed approval in the East, 26 per cent in the Midwest and 23 per cent in the West.

National Guard Week

Mayor Jerry Jones Thursday officially proclaimed April 1-6 as Employer Support for National Guard Week. First Lt. Conley S. McAnally, right, described the week as an "awareness campaign" for employers of National Guardsmen. He said the Guard sent letters to most employers informing them that their employee is a member of the local Guard unit and that the Guard appreciates each employer's support. Here, McAnally shows Jones an M-16 rifle. Each guardsman is required to know how to handle the weapon, McAnally said.

Government keeps close tabs on liquor supplies

WASHINGTON (AP) — If oil were liquor, the government would know where to find virtually every drop of it.

The national debate over whether the energy crisis is real or contrived would disappear as fast as a flask of whiskey at a college football game.

The Treasury Department's Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms Division keeps close tabs on liquor and beer inventories of distilleries and breweries that it can tell almost instantly how much is stocked.

Energy officials agree that if they had such legal controls over oil inventories there would be no trouble convincing the public the fuel shortage is real.

The division's monitoring of liquor inventories is so extensive that federal employees are stationed in many distilleries and bonded warehouses, keeping the premises under lock and key so that no liquor is illegally removed.

All this is done for tax purposes, to collect the federal levy on beer and alcoholic beverages. The controls on inventories are more than 100 years old, but have been altered over the years.

In addition to domestically produced liquor and beer, the Customs Bureau keeps accurate records on alcoholic beverages shipped from other countries.

The Treasury's liquor and beer watchers number about 800 nationally. They conduct spot inspections, check records required by law, and handle "work-back" audits to make sure distilleries and breweries aren't misleading the government.

Treasury officials in charge of the program didn't know whether the same kind of inventory controls could be put on the oil industry.

But one thing is for sure. If the nation ever had a liquor shortage, there'd be no question about whether it was real.

Launch effort to aid local family

Mrs. Herman Arens, 1610 South Carr, has started a "mother's drive" to aid the Opfer family's fund. Mrs. Arens said she is soliciting help from Sedalia mothers to canvass their neighborhoods for donations.

Mrs. Opfer, 32, 168 Autumn, and her five children still are hospitalized for injuries they received in a head-on collision last Friday on West Broadway.

Mrs. Arens said Mayor Jerry Jones and the Chamber of Commerce have approved the door-to-door campaign for next Friday and Saturday.

She said anyone interested in helping with the drive should contact her at 826-8380. Though Mrs. Arens has named her campaign a "mother's drive," she said she welcomes help from any volunteers.

Mrs. Arens said she decided to take on the drive "being a mother myself and putting myself in their place. I would feel pretty helpless. And I know that's probably the way she (Mrs. Opfer) feels."

"People forget about it if you ask them to send it in ... so I want to get door-to-door canvassing," she said.

Mrs. Arens is preparing packets and identification for the volunteers to carry during the canvass. She said she also will equip volunteers with the necessary materials to write receipts for donors.

Mrs. Arens conducted a similar drive three years ago for another accident victim. She said the results of the drive will be turned over to the First Christian Church board of trustees, which is handling the Opfer family's trust fund.

Badaracco won't oppose Sullivan

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Alderman Joseph Badaracco, a Republican, said Thursday he has decided against opposing Democratic incumbent Leonor Sullivan in this year's 3rd Congressional district race.

Mrs. Sullivan, who has served 11 terms, two weeks ago announced intentions not to seek office again but was persuaded by party leaders to change her mind.

"She is tired and disgusted by her own admission," Badaracco said, "and I'll wait until she steps down."

Production of windmill kits for autos planned

SPRINGDALE, Ark. (AP) — Rex Curtis of Springdale and four Oklahoma men have developed a car they say could help solve the fuel shortage. Their slogan is: "We go when the wind blows."

The electric car, which the men said will be ready for trial runs in about 45 days, will use a windmill to charge batteries.

They gave these details: When the driver parks for any length of time while the wind is blowing, he will pull a lever and a windmill will pop up on top of the car. It will operate a generator to charge the batteries. A small electric motor will retract the windmill when not in use.

A small, lightweight gasoline engine will charge batteries while the car is being driven or when the wind is not blowing.

The car should be able to go about 50 miles without a recharge at speeds of 30 to 50 miles per hour, Curtis and his code-signers said.

Curtis said he and his colleagues plan to manufacture the pop-up windmills to be sold with motors and all other accessories required to convert any small compact car to an electric car.

The Oklahoma men involved in the venture are Everett Wellman of Oklahoma City, a mechanical engineer; William R. Avey of Oklahoma City, owner of a tool and grinding service; Rex Carmichael of Yukon, an automobile dealer and body shop owner; and Marvin McInnis of Oklahoma City, head of an engineering firm.

Kidney disease symptoms listed

Dear Dr. Lamb — Would you please describe in your column the symptoms of kidney disease. It seems I pass my water more than normal. I never really bothered me because I drink a lot of liquids. But lately, every morning as soon as I get up I have to go to the bathroom. If feels as if there is a pressure in my stomach.

Also, would I have to go to a specialist or a regular doctor for a checkup for this type of problem. I'm 22 years old.

Dear Reader — There are a lot of different types of kidney disease. Sometimes the first real indication is high blood pressure. If a person has an acute infection of the kidney he may have severe pain in the back over the lower ribs. Of course, you could have fever and other signs of infection with this problem.

Then there are low-grade chronic infections that may not produce any noticeable symptoms. Kidney stones also are a form of kidney disease and can be silent or cause severe pain in the abdomen, in the back or into the groin.

Bleeding in the urine is often sign of kidney disease. It can be from the bladder, however. It should never be ignored and should be evaluated by a doctor at once. Sometimes sudden bleeding in the urine without other problems is an indication of a kidney cancer, so you should never postpone an examination for the cause of blood in the urine.

Passing urine frequently can be a sign of kidney disease, but more often in women it is a sign of inflammation of the bladder, usually a less serious problem. It can even be caused by nervousness.

Increased frequency of urination can mean prostate trouble in men. When a large volume of urine is passed regularly it may be simply because of habit of drinking lots of liquids, or it could be an indication of a problem unrelated to the kidneys. A diabetic often eliminates lots of urine, and he will be thirsty, causing him to drink lots of water to replace the loss. This can occur even though the diabetic's kidneys are still normal.

You would be wise to see your family doctor first for an evaluation of your symptoms. If it is proved to be diabetes, which I doubt, you would not need to see a kidney specialist. Your family doctor can tell if you have a problem and if it is complicated enough to warrant having you see a specialist for it.

Dear Dr. Lab — I am 14-years-old, five feet two, and weigh 110 pounds. My average caloric intake per day is about 1500 to 1800 calories. I have seen many charts saying that my caloric intake should be 2200. I know if I ate that much I would be fatter than I am now. I am fat now, and 2200 calories is a lot of calories.

Dear Reader — I agree. Most charts recommend 2100 to 2400 calories for girls in your age group. But, this is just an average figure and is high because you are still in your growing years. However, you have to decide how many calories you need on the basis of your own body, not someone else's. If you are accumulating fat, then either you are not getting enough physical activity or you are taking in too many calories. (NEA)

Howard has low bid on rock for county

The Pettis County Court Thursday accepted bids submitted by Howard Quarries to provide the county with gravel and rock for the coming year, Eastern District Judge E. L. "Red" Birdsong announced.

The following bids were submitted by the company: $1.95 per ton for one and one-half inch road rock; $1.95 per ton for two-inch road rock; $2.05 per ton for three-fourths inch bituminous material; $3.15 per ton for three-eighths inch rock chips; and $1.60 per ton for shot rock.

Also submitting bids was the W. J. Menefee Construction Co.

Sedalia No. 200 School District Needs Your Help

Patrons will vote on April 2, 1974, on a levy increase.

One of the things you can expect from the increased income is continuing emphasis on expanding our curriculum and maintaining a low per pupil teacher ratio.

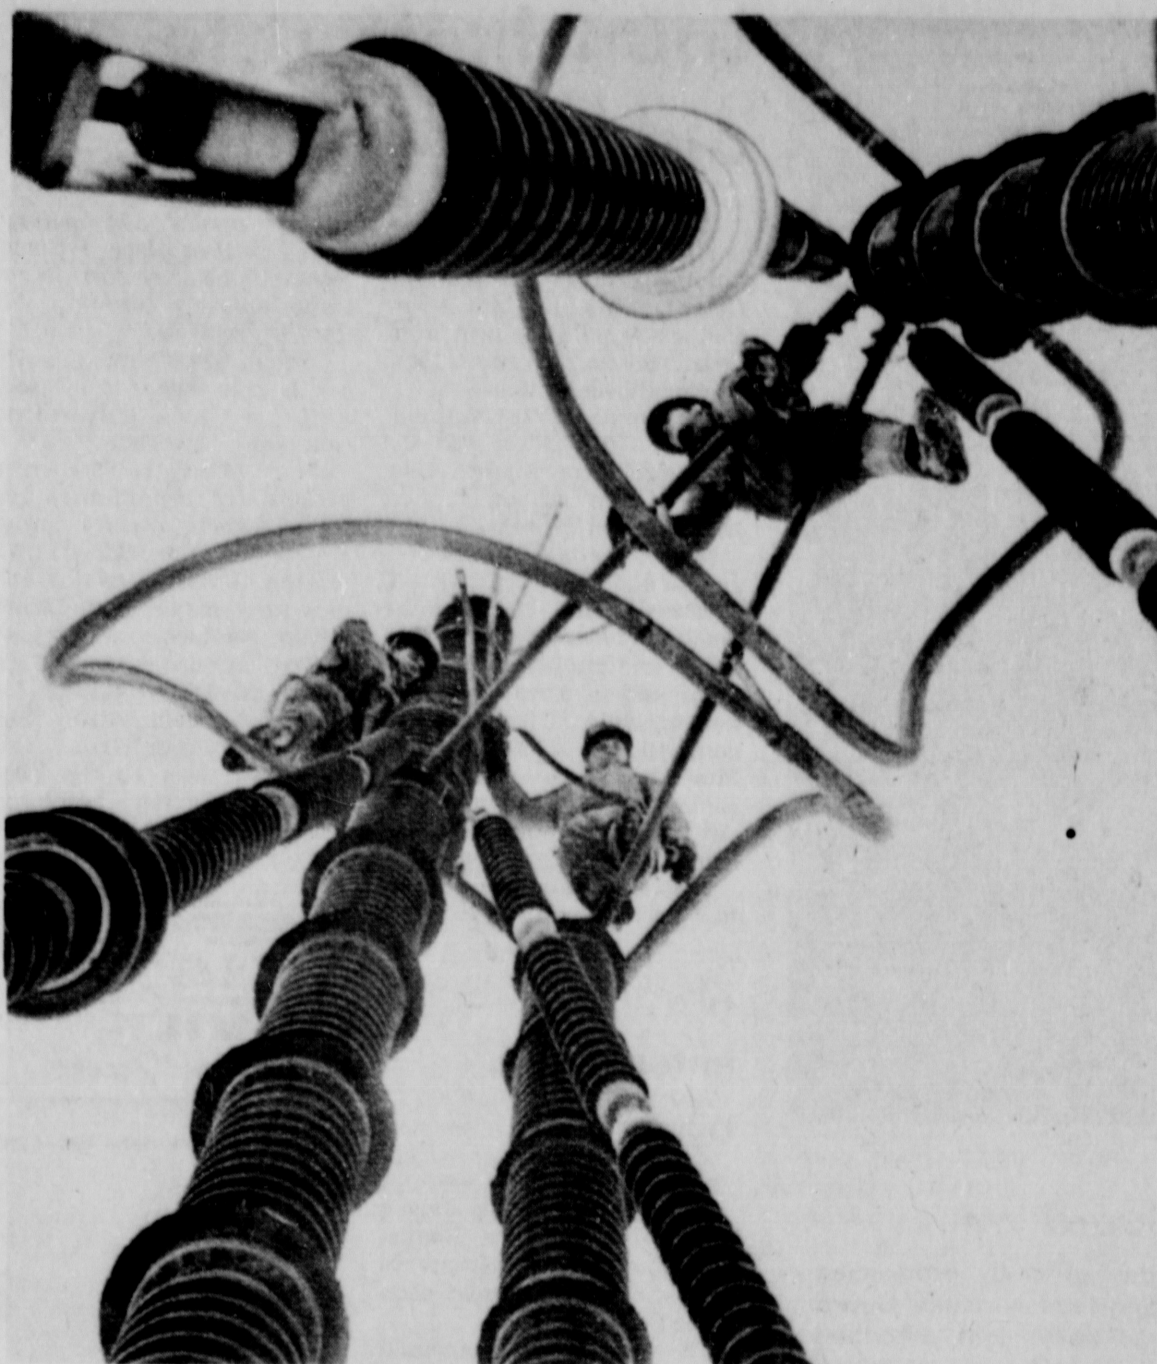

Three years ago we offered 66 units of credit for secondary students and no vocational classes. We are currently offering 114 courses for credit and classes in 9 vocational areas. Through increased vocational offerings at State Fair Community College, Sedalia No. 200 officials have an opportunity to offer a broader curriculum at the lowest possible cost.

We have the lowest per pupil teacher ratio currently that we have enjoyed for several years. This permits the maximum amount of teacher time to be spent on the individual learner's problems.

We must have additional operating income to maintain and improve these programs.

We urge you to vote YES
for the levy April 2nd.

Nixon using two answers

By WALTER R. MEARS
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Any political campaign has its set piece. The Speech a candidate delivers day after day to stress his major themes. President Nixon's campaign to rebuild public confidence and block impeachment is no exception.

Nixon's forum has been the nationally broadcast and televised question-and-answer session. He has held four of them in less than a month. Two were White House news conferences, two on the road. He says there are likely to be more.

Whatever the questions put to the President, his two key answers have been the same:

—He will not resign, contending that to do so would destroy the presidency itself.

—He will not agree to turn over additional White House tape recordings and documents sought by House impeachment investigators, on grounds this would break the confidentiality essential to any president.

He has, at the same time, repeated his demands for a swift end to Watergate investigations, declaring anew that one year is enough, that dragging it out drags down America.

The words have changed somewhat: the tone became tougher at his session with the National Association of Broadcasters in Houston Tuesday night.

Nixon suggested, for example, that the House Judiciary Committee may be going beyond the limits of the Constitution in seeking additional White House documents.

"... I am suggesting that the House follow the Constitution," he said. "If they do, I will."

Nixon did not answer directly the question of whether he would comply should the House committee issue a subpoena for specific items. But he implied that he would not, contending that the principle of presidential confidentiality applies to impeachment as to any other investigation.

That is an argument he used earlier in his unsuccessful effort to withhold White House tape recordings from the Watergate grand jury on grounds of executive privilege.

The tone and substance of the questions varied, from those of business executives in Chicago to those put by newsmen in Houston and Washington. But they produced the same information.

On resignation, and on the question of yielding up additional documents, Nixon said repeatedly that he was defending his office, guarding the prerogatives of the White House for those who will succeed him.

Says further gas increases may help reduce shortages

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

WASHINGTON (AP) — Federal energy chief William E. Simon says further gasoline price increases may help discourage purchases enough to reduce gasoline shortages across the nation to as little as 1.5 per cent.

Lifting of the Arab oil embargo will leave the United States with estimated gasoline shortages of 5 to 8 per cent during the rest of this year, President Nixon said at a news conference Tuesday.

Nixon ended the voluntary ban on Sunday gasoline sales but said the energy squeeze would still have to be offset by conservation measures such as car pools and lowered speed limits.

Simon told a House Appropriations subcommittee Wednesday that drawing down on gasoline inventories could reduce the shortages to about 4 to 7 per cent.

He added that gasoline prices possibly rising as high as 70 cents a gallon could help discourage consumption and thus shrink the shortages to the range of 1.5 to 3 per cent.

Last week the average price for regular gasoline was about 53 cents a gallon, up from an average of 39 cents in 1973.

Gasoline shortages in February and March have been figured at about 17 per cent — resulting in long lines at service stations in many areas and emergency allocations late last month by the Federal Energy Office.

The FEO on Wednesday revised its March allocations, giving nine states additional gasoline supplies. All other state allocations remained unchanged.

The increases, totaling some 1.2 million barrels, are to be drawn from oil company inventories of more than 200 million barrels.

Percentage increases for the nine states are: Alabama, 1 per cent; Arizona, 14.4 per cent; California, 1.2 per cent; Idaho, 0.5 per cent; Kentucky, 2.6 per cent; Nebraska, 2.7 per cent; Pennsylvania, 3.3 per cent; South Carolina, 5.9 per cent; Vermont, 16.8 per cent.

Meanwhile, the American Petroleum Institute reported that gasoline output by refineries last week decreased by about 1 per cent while production of already-plentiful distillate fuel oil increased.

Thousands turn to 'marriage factory'

By TOM TIEDE

NEW YORK (NEA) — In a time of rocketing prices, increasing numbers of couples are finding at least one remaining bargain in this town: a civil marriage at City Hall still costs only $3.

Deputy City Clerk Thomas Lenane, who conducts many of the ceremonies in Manhattan's municipal building, says the number of city-provided civil marriages has risen from 6,000 a year in the mid-1960s to today's annual rate of 20,000. On a given day, authorities will marry as many as 300 in New York's five boroughs.

Lenane says the increase is due to a variety of factors — including the general trend away from formal marriages — but believes economy may be a primary stimulus. "You can't get into a church wedding for less than $1,000 today," he says, so the line outside his chapel is full of pragmatic, or poor, betrothed.

The line is at least full. Dozens of couples regularly wait outside the tiny second floor Manhattan chapel. Some are formally dressed, others take the occasion casually — the only appearance regulation is that women must wear dresses, not pants.

The ceremony is brief. The couple join hands, exchange rings, and Lenane or someone else (Spanish-speaking if necessary) says that "by virtue of the authority vested in me by the state of New York I now pronounce you man and wife." The couple then usually kiss, but not always, and hustle away while Lenane says: "Next."

Marriages are held five days a week, and up to 6 p.m. on Wednesdays. The city used to conduct ceremonies on Saturday morning, to accommodate servicemen who could not get away during the week, but the practice was terminated last year. City Clerk Herman Katz says the Saturday affair was getting out of hand: Couples arrived in hordes, lounging around loudly, eating and going to such an extent the solemnity of the ceremony was endangered.

Solemnity may still not be the precise spirit at the ceremonies, but some propriety is observed. The highly intoxicated are turned away. Fighting and such are not permitted.

Usually, however, no questions are asked. Some of the couple look terribly young, but they must have a license (an extra $4) and so their ages are certified. And regardless of a general feeling that a few of the hasty unions might not last until morning, Lenane and his colleagues hope for the best.

The Supreme Court forbids them from injecting any religious reference in the nuptials, but most officials at least say "God Bless You" to them all.

Former convict escapes custody

CLAYTON, Mo. (AP) — St. Louis County police said Thursday they are looking for a former convict who escaped custody Wednesday while awaiting transfer to Fulton State Hospital.

Joseph M. Vidauri, 39, according to police, broke away from persons detaining him at the St. Louis State Hospital.

Vidauri was convicted of slaying a fellow prisoner during a riot at the Missouri State Penitentiary in 1954. He was paroled in 1970 and his sentence was set aside two years later on a ruling his confession was improperly obtained.

Discrimination suit dismissed over Black Jack

ST. LOUIS (AP) — The federal government is expected to decide within 60 days whether to appeal dismissal of a suit charging racial discrimination in a north county community's zoning ordinance.

U. S. District Court Judge James H. Meredith dismissed the suit Wednesday, ruling the Justice Department failed to prove charges filed in 1971 against the community of Black Jack.

Justice Department attorneys contended residents of the community voted to incorporate in 1970 for the sole purpose of excluding blacks from residence. The exclusion of the blacks was accomplished, the government contended, through a zoning ordinance prohibiting construction of new apartments.

"The evidence in this case does not support a charge of racial motivation, purpose or intent in the incorporation of Black Jack as a city or the passing of Black Jack's ordinance," Meredith ruled in a 25-page opinion.

"Although it is true very few officials will openly state racial reasons for their actions, racial considerations must be shown as part of the legislation or as a significant reason for the legislation," he wrote.

Ann Landers

VD intimate contacts must be revealed

Dear Ann Landers: I agree with your advice to the East Coaster who had a bad case of VD. However, as a medical officer of a health department, I think you should make it clear that most local departments have the authority to enforce examination of friends with whom the infected person has been intimate.

Only when people realize the importance of naming ALL their contacts do we stand a reasonable chance of gaining control over VD, which has now reached epidemic proportions. Please, Ann, print this letter and urge cooperation. It is desperately needed. — Owen Sound, Ont.

Dear O.S.: I have repeatedly urged my readers who learn they have VD to cooperate with the health authorities and reveal the names of everyone with whom they have been intimate. Thank you for reminding me to do so again.

VD, unless treated, can cause serious and permanent damage — even death. Moreover, an infected person who is unaware of it can spread the disease to an alarming number of unsuspecting victims.

I repeat for the umpteenth time. If anyone who reads this column suspects that he or she has VD, please go to your city or county health department at once. You will be examined and, if necessary, treated without charge. Your parents will not be notified, regardless of your age. (Thank the good Lord THAT law has been changed.) And, when the health officer asks you to name your contacts, level with him. This is not fining on your friends. In fact, you will be doing them an enormous favor.

Dear Ann Landers: I noted with interest that when a reader asked you flat-out how you felt about being called "Ms." you made it abundantly clear that you didn't care for the handle.

A recent poll revealed that over 75 per cent of the women between 20 and 40 who were asked the same question didn't wish to be called "Ms." either. So what's new? Any polltaker should know that a Miss who becomes a Mrs. has something that a Ms. probably does NOT have — and that's a husband. — Call Me Madame

Dear Madame: Thanks for the fill-in. I didn't mean to imply that I see anything wrong with wanting to be called "Ms." I believe if a woman signs herself "Ms." she should be addressed that way — but not until or unless.

Dear Ann Landers: For 22 years we've financed everything under the sun for my in-laws. They have never had the decency to say "the check arrived." — Much less "thank you."

There are nine children in the family and my husband has assumed some responsibility for all of them. He has even gone to the bank and borrowed money (on which he had to pay interest) to help them out.

From the day we married, his parents have had their hands in my husband's pockets. I am sick to death of it but he says he can't refuse them. His father had a stroke recently and when he dies, my husband's unearned guilt will probably triple and his mother will lean on him even more.

I know they are all sick, but what can I do? If his mother would just tell him she loves him it would help, but she's a cold fish and will never change.

If you print this you will make me very happy. And I'll see to it that all twelve of them get a framed copy. — Outnumbered

Dear Out: Here it is. Go get the frames.

Polly's pointers

Read directions to avoid disaster

By POLLY CRAMER

DEAR POLLY — Mrs. C.J.H. wanted to know how to remove mildew from a COTTON dress and tablecloth. I learned a great trick while working a laundry and have used it for years. She is fortunate that her things are cotton as some synthetics resist chemicals. Put articles in a good-size bucket or basin (no rust please) and let them soak overnight in clear water being sure they are covered completely. In the morning remove the articles and make a solution of one quart warm water, 1/4 cup bleach and 1/4 cup vinegar and mix. Immerse the articles in this but do not leave it and keep them moving so the solution goes through all parts of the material. It usually does not take long for the mildew to disappear unless the spots are very old. — MRS. R.A.

DEAR GIRLS — Many readers sent in this same formula but, of course, the materials and colors must be safe for the use of bleach. Mrs. R.A. did not say but I am sure her treatment is followed by a usual washing. Remember this is for COTTON. If one prefers new stains are often removed with salt and lemon juice applied and dried in the direct sunlight. Some say that soaking in a bleach solution should be followed by three clear water rinses. — POLLY.

Polly's problem

DEAR POLLY — I saw a new silver cleaner advertised on TV that looked so easy to use. I bought it. When a very badly tarnished spoon was dipped in the solution it came out sparkling clean. I have a set of sterling silver for 12 and a lot of extra serving pieces and wanted to speed up the cleaning job so poured this solution over it (without reading the directions). Much to my dismay all the knife blades have bad spots on them. I have tried several stainless steel cleaners but none will remove these stains. I hope someone can tell me what I can do. — KATE.

DEAR GIRLS — If only something could be invented that would make it impossible to open products until the directions were read. How many disasters result remembering just bits and pieces of this and that. ALWAYS read any directions and instructions. — POLLY.

Excessive executive power is the issue

WASHINGTON — It is so temptingly easy to reduce the whole Watergate mess to the question of whether you like or detest Richard Nixon.

Or whether you think he is a crook. Or whether you think his resignation is necessary to prevent a GOP calamity this fall.

Rowan

The most natural human inclination is to despise Nixon because of his long history of dirty campaign tactics, or because he earns $200,000 a year, keeps most of his $50,000 expense account, and still pays less taxes than laborers sweating out two jobs to pull in $15,000 a year.

The simplest human reaction is to overlook all manner of charges against Nixon if you believe that nothing is more important than his efforts to "bring a generation of peace," halt violence on the campuses, take "crime out of the streets," block the busing of school children in particular and slow the desegregation of schools in general.

These emotional, highly personal reactions tend to blind us to the reality that Watergate is about a couple of things of infinitely longer-lasting importance than Richard Nixon the man.

1. Is it possible to curb the ever-growing powers of the executive branch, or are we hopelessly lost to an executive tyranny in which the checks-and-balances set up by the founding fathers are destroyed?

2. Will we, can we, make Watergate the catalyst for election reforms that give politics back to the people, ending the current outrage where huge campaign contributions buy policy shifts, ambassadorships, protection from criminal prosecution, exemption from anti-trust laws?

This concern for limiting executive power is as old as the republic. George Washington, who padded his expense accounts and was accused of a variety of abuses of power, barely escaped impeachment proceedings.

Abraham Lincoln was a furious critic of presidential abuses while he was in the Congress. He gave President Polk the kind of fit regarding the Mexican War that Congress should have given Lyndon B. Johnson when the Gulf of Tonkin resolution came up. Lincoln demanded information as to what Mexicans had attacked which Americans, where and when.

Yet, as President, while Congress was out of session in 1861, Lincoln called out volunteers, built the Army and Navy beyond authorized strength, censored the mails, suspended habeas corpus and disbursed unappropriated money.

The lesson is that all Presidents will take whatever power they can and use it as wantonly as the country will permit.

Most Americans have already made up their minds as to whether Mr. Nixon is a crook — or whether he was personally involved in the Watergate crimes and cover-up. The only question is whether they can do anything about it, whatever the truth.

Television and radio have given the President a special power-of-incumbency that did not exist for Washington, Lincoln or even Franklin D. Roosevelt. Mr. Nixon can set up an appearance in Chicago before sickeningly sycophantic business executives and have the TV networks feed into every home in America his self-serving, long-winded replies to cream-puff questions. He can go to the Grand Old Opry in Nashville, and throw out obfuscations and contradictions in Houston, knowing that the media will saturate the minds of millions of Americans.

If the President lies about the special Watergate prosecutor, or misconstrues the position of the House Judiciary Committee pondering his impeachment, so what? They have no comparable way of using the same networks to tell the American people the truth.

So we may find that the accretion of executive power since Washington's day has reached a point where a desperate, ruthless President can work his will over not only the courts and the Congress, but also "the fourth estate," the press.

If he can, there will be no electoral reforms. Mr. Nixon despite all the woes that tainted big money got him into, is still opposing public financing of presidential elections.

If he has his way we shall still have in 1976, and maybe in 2076, a society in which leadership is chosen through the skillful use of satchels full of secret $100 bills.

Overweening executive power is THE issue of the hour for Americans, however much it may seem to be merely a question of Nixon's character.

This just might be our last best chance for a century to tear down the trappings of executive tyranny and go back to the precepts of founders who wanted most of all to ensure that this country would never have a king.

My life as a non-smoker

By DOUG KNEIBERT

I read this week where another federal panel, this one composed of scientists, has condemned the "social pressures" that make people smoke, drink and eat too much. The scientists said the federal government ought to do more to keep people from succumbing to this kind of thing.

If there was ever anybody vulnerable to social pressure, it was me as a kid, especially when it came to smoking. As a result I spent about 10 or 15 years of my life trying to learn to smoke, only to turn out an utter failure.

No one worried about their health back then. After all, the magazine ads showed doctors with mirrors strapped to their heads telling you how smoking was good for you, and did wonders for something called your "T-Zone."

Everybody in my neighborhood smoked. Freddy Scaggs, whom we all kind of looked to for leadership in this sort of thing, started me out on grape vines in the fourth or fifth grade. Grape vines were fine as far as they went, but were hard to keep lit, lost their freshness fast and were somewhat seasonal.

Freddy, who used to carry his cigarettes in the sleeve of his t-shirt, soon had everyone puffing store-bought smokes. Usually they were Marvells, because Marvells sold for only 15 cents a pack. And they tasted like 14 cents of that was clear profit.

I guess I smoked Marvells for about six months before I heard of inhaling. I just used to take a big drag, let it linger in my mouth for awhile, then blow it out in a great, dense cloud. Not much thrill there.

Freddy taught what he called "French" inhaling. It consisted, as best I could get it, of letting a little smoke curl up out of your mouth before inhaling. Maybe it was supposed to look sexy or something.

Freddy demonstrated by taking a mighty drag, letting some smoke escape, and then inhaling deeply. Smoke continued to come out of his mouth for about a minute or two as he explained the technique to us novices.

I inhaled a mouthful of smoke from a Wings (having graduated from Marvells) with every intention of blowing it out if I had not gone into a paroxysm of coughing and watering eyes. I continued to cough smoke out most of the way home. For me, inhaling took some getting used to.

Ever on the look for new thrills, one day I learned from the hired man how to roll my own. I also learned that if the resulting cigarette is 90 per cent paper and only 10 per cent tobacco, it burns into your lips with the rapidity of a dynamite fuse.

As I grew in years I took up cigars, pipes and even chewed a little. About half way through college I decided it was no longer economical to buy cigarettes, so I limited myself to bumming. With the help of my friends, I soon quit altogether.

Big move

An entourage of 24,000 — noblemen with their families, servants, plus household goods — accompanied the Empress Elizabeth of Imperial Russia whenever she moved the 400 miles between her palaces at St. Petersburg and Moscow. At her death in 1911, Elizabeth's closets contained 15,000 dresses.

"WHAT DO THEY MEAN: 'CRISIS IN LEADERSHIP'?"

By JACK ANDERSON

WASHINGTON — President Nixon is deeply conscious of the terrible power at his fingertips to plunge the world into a nuclear holocaust.

"I could push this button right here and in 20 minutes 70 million Russians would be dead," he told a secret strategy session on March 8. "And 25 minutes later, 70 million Americans would be dead," he said.

He made the statement to dramatize the importance of the Soviet-American detente. But it is a remark he has made in past private conversations, betraying a strange fascination with his control over the world's mightiest nuclear force.

He has also spoken admiringly of the cold courage that the late President Kennedy demonstrated during the nuclear showdown with Russia in 1962 over missile shipments to Cuba.

But on March 8, according to the confidential minutes, he spoke only of averting the massive casualties he could cause by pushing the nuclear button. We should "pray a lot," he told party leaders, and "do everything in our power to get along" with the Soviets.

The way to prevent a "long-term crisis," he said, was to avert a "short-term crisis." One way this could be accomplished, he urged, was to grant them trade concessions.

"If we don't talk to them, if we don't trade with them, we're going to face enormous increases in defense expenditures," he warned.

The President argued that it is possible to deal with the Soviets without approving their ideology.

"I despise what happened to Solzhenitsyn," he said, referring to the banishment of the dissident Soviet writer Aleksander Solzhenitsyn. "But he's in Paris rather than Siberia or six feet under. We're not approving anything about their system."

Senate Republican Hugh Scott quickly agreed. "We used to look for Reds under the bed," he said. "As I see it, we're moving to the living room, not into bed with them."

Secretary of State Henry Kissinger suggested a different analogy. "Presently," he said, "we have broken the ice. We're in a parlous period even so, but we should use the thaw to get good water from the spring."

STRANGE SWAP: The taxpayers are bailing out another giant corporation, Rockwell International, which had been stuck with a lavish, out-of-the-way building it couldn't use.

Now the General Services Administration has agreed to take over the unoccupied building in exchange for government-owned property, which the corporation is leasing but would like to acquire.

The $20 million facility, which the taxpayers are about to take off Rockwell's hands, is located about 40 miles outside of Los Angeles. It is a magnificent building, nestled in the rolling hills of Laguna Niguel, Calif.

Because of a cutback in military electronics procurement, however, it has remained empty since its completion in 1971. Quite understandably, Rockwell officials have been eager to unload the white elephant, which has cost the company more than $1 million a year merely to maintain.

About a year ago, GSA advised Congress of its intention to exchange three "surplus" facilities in Los Angeles for the Laguna Niguel building. The appraisers determined the value of the swapped properties was approximately the same.

The deal would have gone through a month later, except for the strong opposition of Rep. Jack Brooks, D-Tex., whose Government Operations Subcommittee doggedly monitors GSA.

Brooks' year-long probe has determined that GSA has actually received reservations for only about half of the 750,000 square feet in the huge Rockwell plant. And some of those requests, Brooks felt, were suspect.

The President's San Clemente estate, for example, is only about 10 miles away and already about 20,000 square feet have been designated as a "temporary presidential documents storage area." But most of the government officials, who eventually will inhabit the building, live 30 to 40 miles away in the Los Angeles area. GSA officials vigorously deny that the $20 million building was purchased more for the convenience of President Nixon than the government employees it is supposed to house.

"The GSA has misled Congress and the public about the need for this space," Brooks told us, "in an effort to justify the acquisition." He complained that "there is no public transportation, no low or middle income housing in the area, and it is going to cost the government millions to provide these services and to move government agencies" to Laguna Niguel.

GSA boss Arthur Sampson told us, in rebuttal, that the acquisition of the Rockwell facility was "a once-in-a-lifetime opportunity to get (the space) at half price." He said "action plans" would be formulated to provide housing and transportation.

He made no effort to conceal his feelings toward Brooks. "I'm tired of being nice to ... our dear old friend" on Capitol Hill, Sampson stated, complaining that Brooks had delayed the acquisition of the facility for almost a year.

Environment index is gloomy reading

March 17-23 is National Wildlife Week, but according to the citizen group which sponsors it, it is no celebration.

Perhaps a wake?

The National Wildlife Federation has released its fifth annual Environmental Quality Index, a survey of the state of the nation's seven key environmental indicators.

It finds that all but air quality have deteriorated. The federation is a national citizen group which is represented in Missouri by the Conservation Federation, largest citizen conservation group in Missouri with more than 20,000 members.

The index reports that more than one million acres of wildlife habitat is lost each year, "either buried under buildings and pavements or drowned by reservoirs."

Habitat loss is considered by conservationists the leading danger to wildlife today. The Department of the Interior says that Missouri is among states which now have few or no nesting bald eagles.

There are three basic reasons for the loss of bald eagles, says the department: pesticide pollution which results in reproductive failure or direct mortality, habitat destruction and human disturbances or intrusions at nest sites that discourage nesting and interfere with incubation, and shooting.

Missouri had only one discovered active nest in the department's 1973 eagle survey and it produced no young.

The Wildlife Federation blames much of the environmental situation on a lack of funding to solve the increasing problems.

"Only about one per cent of the new administration-proposed $304.4 billion budget is designated for environment and natural resource programs," the federation says.

Every one of the federation's five indexes has showed an overall decline from the preceding one. (Mo. Dept. of Conservation)

In spite of all the violent crime we read about today, the holdup at the bridge table is not only perfectly legal, but it has the approval of all successful players.

South analyzes the opening lead and notes that West has led the danger suit. Any other opening would have given South time to knock out both enemy aces and make sure of scoring at least nine tricks. As it is the defense can set up heart winners against him.

South can knock out the diamond ace and come to nine tricks with a successful club finesse, but he sees a much better play. He can make his contract if hearts break 4-3 in which case he will lose just two hearts and

For Boston College

Gamble paid off

NEW YORK (AP) — Freshman Paul Berwanger was the last person that Boston College's Jere Nolan wanted to pass to with the final seconds ticking off on the Madison Square Garden clock and the Eagles one point behind.

But there was no time to be choosy and Berwanger came through, scoring with two seconds remaining to give Boston College a 76-75 victory over Connecticut Thursday night and a semifinal berth in the National Invitation Tournament.

Boston College will play Utah, which downed Memphis State 92-78.

"I have nothing against Paul," said Nolan after the game, "but he's just not the guy you want to take a shot like that. Even in practice, I don't pass to him unless he's right under the basket."

"But I saw that he had a small guy guarding him and I knew he'd be able to get off the shot."

The Eagles had to come back from a 17-point deficit, the result of a 25 per cent shooting performance from the field in the first half.

The Boston College offense in the first half was mostly at the free throw line. Only Bob Carington, who scored four of the Eagles eight field goals, provided much offensive punch.

But in the second half, Carington was joined by Mark Raterink and the Eagles, helped by Connecticut's sudden chill at the foul line, came roaring back to tie the game with three minutes remaining on a basket by Will Morrison.

A basket by Jim Foster with 12 seconds remaining put Connecticut ahead 75-74 and set the stage for the game-winner by Berwanger, a nephew of the first winner of the Heisman College Football Trophy, Jay Berwanger.

Utah Coach Bill Foster almost ran into the same problem against Memphis State. Up 17 points in the first half and 10 at halftime, the Utes saw their lead dwindle and then disappear when they ran up against a zone defense which cut off Mike Sojourner, who scored 16 points in the and added 10 rebounds in the first half.

"The zone slowed us down," said Utah Coach Bill Foster. "We're a club that likes to run the whole game."

"Actually we didn't see that much of the zone this season." Utah star Ticky Burden finished with 29 points while Tyrone Medley had 26 and Sojourner finished with 19.

Memphis State, which caught the Utes at 65-65 before falling back, was led by Bill Cook who finished with 23 points and Dexter Reed who had 22.

Purdue and Jacksonville will face each other in the other end of the Saturday afternoon semifinals. Purdue ousted Hawaii 85-72 while Jacksonville slid by Maryland-Eastern Shore 85-83 Tuesday night.

Hostile land is awaiting Bruins in Saturday contest

GREENSBORO, N.C. (AP) — When UCLA, now two victories away from its eighth straight national basketball championship, takes the Greensboro Coliseum court Saturday afternoon against North Carolina State, the Bruins will find they are playing the entire Atlantic Coast Conference.

There's a fierce pride among ACC followers in the basketball achievements of its members.

When UCLA dropped two games in a weekend Oregon tour last month, N.C. State usurped the No. 1 national ranking the Bruins had regained in trimming Notre Dame.

State has held the No. 1 spot ever since and two other ACC teams remain in the top 10 nationally. Maryland, overtime loser to N.C. State in the ACC championship game at Greensboro two weeks ago, is No. 4 and North Carolina is No. 10.

This status symbol has caused ACC chests to swell in pride over what followers consider the toughest basketball conference in the land.

When UCLA and N.C. State meet at 3 p.m., EDT, two hours after Marquette and Kansas open Saturday's semifinals, ACC fans in the sellout crowd of 15,761 will forget their season-long differences and join in vocal support of Coach Norman Sloan's team against what they regard as the common enemy.

S-C Tigers open baseball campaign in Springfield

The 1974 season for the Smith-Cotton baseball Tigers is scheduled to open Saturday in Springfield.

S-C, a club with 12 lettermen back from a year ago, won 10 of its 20 games under veteran coach "Skip" Schulz in 1973. The Tigers finished in a tie for the runner-up spot last year in the Central Missouri Conference.

Paul Kostopolus, a right-hander, and Greg Bechtel, a lefty, are Schulz' top mound prospects. Dewayne Stratman, Rick McRoy, Mark Stockstill and Mark Thomason bolster his hopes on the mound.

The trip to Springfield will feature the Tigers in a split doubleheader against Hillcrest and Glendale. The opening game against Hillcrest is slated for 1 p.m.

The Tigers jump from the frying pan with Saturday's non-league dates, right into the fire one week from Saturday when they travel to Hannibal for a CMC twinbill with the Pirates.

April 1, S-C goes to Independence for split doubleheader with Truman and William Chrisman before opening the 1974 home campaign in Liberty Park Stadium with Parkhill.

Norton is not awed by Foreman

CARACAS, Venezuela (AP) — Ken Norton is well aware of the strength of heavyweight champion George Foreman, but he's not awed.

"I respect his strength," Norton said Thursday after finishing serious training for his title bid against Foreman Tuesday night. "But I'm no 98-pound weakling myself."

"Strength is his game," added Norton. "He doesn't try to outthink an opponent. He tries to run over him."

The challenger said he felt that he and trainer Bill Slayton have mapped a strategy to combat the savage punching power of Foreman. Norton also said he has the answer to Foreman's tactic of pushing an opponent with both hands.

"If I get pushed down," said Norton, "I'll tell him, 'You do that again and I'll hit you in the cup (a foul blow). One good turn deserves another.'"

"I'm very high for this one," said Norton. "This is for all the marbles."

"He's no friend of mine—he's trying to take the title away," said Foreman, who has virtually ignored Norton any time the two have been together in public.

"He's trying to get that Sonny Liston look," said Norton of Foreman's dead-pan stare. "I think it's very childish. I guess he's trying to psych me in his way. But he isn't. Remember, I fought the champion psycher, Muhammad Ali."

Both fighters resumed public workouts Thursday at the Poliedro, the new indoor arena in which the fight will be held.

Norton had worked out the previous two days in private at the gym of a military school. Foreman had not trained on three of the four previous days.

It was not certain how the champion planned to spend the remaining days before his second title defense.

It appeared the 13,500-seat Poliedro would be sold out, with a live gate of about $700,000, which is what Foreman is guaranteed. The champion also has an option of 40 per cent of all income from the bout, which will be seen on closed-circuit television in the United States and also will be beamed to about 70 other countries.

Norton is guaranteed $200,000 against 20 per cent.

Not moving is best defense for goalie

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Goalie Andre Gill traveled a long way to be with the Chicago Cougars, but his best trip was the one he didn't make.

Gill, who journeyed from the Cougars' Long Island farm club to play in Chicago Thursday night, was protecting a 5-5 tie with 30 seconds left in overtime when he found himself the last line of defense between Vancouver's high-scoring wing, Danny Lawson, and a 6-5 loss.

Lawson, a 46-goal scorer, skated in alone and attempted to move Gill out of position, but the Chicago goalie stood his ground.

"Gill stayed with me all the way," said Lawson after the Cougars and Blazers played to a 5-5 overtime tie in the World Hockey Association. "I tried to lift the puck over him but he got his stick on it making a good save."

Elsewhere in the WHA, the Toronto Toros downed the Houston Aeros 6-3 and the Edmonton Oilers and Quebec Nordiques skated to a 5-5 tie.

Gill kicked out the four Vancouver shots in the sudden-death overtime preserving the tie, but he remembered the five goals that got by him.

"My timing was off a bit," Gill said. "It's different up here in this league, of course, and I didn't have a chance to work out with the team."

Blame it on losing

Everybody is tired...

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
The Golden State Warriors have an excuse: they're tired.

"Everyone's tired when they're losing," Buffalo Coach Jack Ramsay said with a marked lack of sympathy Thursday night after his Braves' 115-102 victory — which seriously damaged the Warriors' chances of reaching the National Basketball Association playoffs.

"The schedule has gotten to us. You could see that. They just 'outquicked' us," losing Coach Al Attles said after the only NBA game of the night.

In the American Basketball Association, Kentucky defeated Memphis 121-103 and San Antonio beat Virginia 95-81.

Attles' team, seemingly in command of the Pacific Division race four days ago, has dropped three straight decisions to fall 1 1/2 games behind Los Angeles. The schedule has assigned the Warriors 14 games so far this month, including six in the last eight nights.

The Lakers can clinch the only open playoff berth by winning their last three games, starting with the one tonight against Chicago.

Garfield Heard made two free throws and a field goal in the final minutes, giving him 21 points for the game, after the Warriors had chopped the Buffalo lead from 23 points to six.

Warriors' Cazzie Russell and Butch Beard had 19 points each in the second half and shared game scoring honors with 27 apiece.

Randy Smith scored 23 points to lead the playoff-bound Braves, and Jim McMillian followed with 22. The team shot 54 per cent from the field, including 75 per cent in the opening period.

Colonels 121, Tams 103...

The coaches wouldn't stay out of the stands and the fans wouldn't stay in them during Thursday night's wild American Basketball Association game in Memphis.

Memphis lost, as usual, but at least Coach Bill van Breda Kolff, suffering through a woe-filled season with his Tams, found out that the fans are on his side... some of them, anyway.

The risks of playing football

WASHINGTON (AP) — Your son, the high school football player, runs a 50-50 risk of being hurt at least once during four years of play.

It most likely will be his knee, ankle, head or neck. The culprit probably will be a helmet, shoe or shoulder pad. And the place will be a September practice session, or the second quarter of a game.

The boy will be at the greatest risk if he's an experienced senior in a small school, and the coach is young and never played college ball.

Those are the conclusions reached in a 250-page report on football injuries prepared for the U.S. Consumer Product Safety Commission by two University of North Carolina researchers.

They followed 8,776 players in 43 North Carolina high schools through four seasons and found that 4,287 of them, slightly less than half, were injured.

Carl S. Blyth and Frederick O. Mueller, both of whom hold doctorates in physical education, said there is no reason to suspect their findings could not apply to the 1.2 million boys playing football at 30,000 public and private secondary schools, another 200,000 playing in community and social clubs and, to some extent, to another 70,000 young men on college and university teams.

The researchers conceded that "football is a hard, body-contact sport in which injuries and fatalities will never be eliminated, regardless of what is attempted to make the game safer."

But injuries and deaths can be sharply reduced by well-trained coaches, good equipment, better supervision and instruction and safety-minded game officials, they said.

They zero in on equipment, which they found to be a frequent contributor to the three out of ten injuries caused by "a blow from an object."

"The data clearly indicates helmets as the one piece of equipment most often responsible for the injuries in this category," they said.

Next most dangerous were shoes and shoulder pads.

Proving his point

Vida back in shape

JOHN NELSON
AP Sports Writer

Vida Blue, an American League Cy Young Award winner who has been trying since 1971 to prove it wasn't a fluke, is picking up where he left off last year in search of his rookie form.

Blue went to the mound in the sixth inning and retired 12 straight batters to lead the world champion Oakland A's to a 7-4 exhibition baseball victory over Milwaukee Thursday.

Blue, who had an off season in 1972 after a long hold out over his contract, fanned three batters in his last four innings on the hill. Tim Hosley and Bill North gave the A's the runs they needed with a two-run homer each.

In other exhibition games, Pittsburgh split its squad to take a 7-4 victory over the New York Yankees and drop a 10-9 decision to Kansas City. Houston edged Atlanta 6-5 in 12 innings. Boston got by Montreal 7-6 in 10 innings. St. Louis shutout Detroit 2-0. Philadelphia defeated Cincinnati 5-3. Minnesota eked out a 7-6 victory over the Chicago White Sox. San Francisco blanked Cleveland 5-0. The Chicago Cubs beat San Diego 9-8, and Los Angeles defeated Baltimore 3-2.

Dave Parker, an outfielder who's playing first base for the injured Bob Robertson, hit two solo home runs and a triple to pace the Pirates by the Yankees. Ken Brett, who gave up one run in the second and three in the third, was credited with the victory for seven innings on the mound.

In the other half of the Pirate's twin bill, Kansas City's rookie outfielder, Al Cowens, singled in a run in the ninth inning to give the Royals a one-run victory.

Milt May singled with two outs to give Houston a 12-inning decision over Atlanta in another cliff hanger.

Craig Caskey's wild pitch in the 10th inning allowed Dick McAuliffe to score from third, lifting the Red Sox over Montreal.

Mike Garman threw five innings, allowing only one hit, and three Cardinal pitchers combined to shut out Detroit on just four hits.

Mike Anderson accounted for three of Philadelphia's runs with a homer in the fourth inning.

Minnesota got a clutch homer from Tony Oliva in the seventh inning, breaking open a tie game, and then held on to beat the White Sox.

Tom Bradley and Jim Willoughby allowed seven hits between them for the shutout and Cleveland gave up the two winning runs — both unearned — in the second inning on an error by Dwain Anderson.

John Grubb and Willie McCovey both committed eighth-inning errors that led to four Chicago runs, and Jose Cardenal hit a three-run homer to give the Cubs their close decision.

Jerry Royster smacked a two-run double in the ninth inning that lifted the Dodgers from a 2-1 deficit for the victory.

Five S-C thinclads vie in state meet

Steve Fisher, who has broken his own indoor two-mile run record twice already this season, heads a group of five Smith-Cotton thinclads who will be competing in Saturday's Missouri State High School Activities Association's Indoor Track and Field Meet in Columbia Saturday.

Fisher turned in his best time indoors at the district qualifications in Lexington a week ago with a 9:51.1, which topped the 15-school district field. That bettered his previous record by more than 17 seconds.

In addition to Fisher, Fred Washington, Bob Buehn, Jim Lovercamp and Don Smith earned qualifying spots for Saturday's state meet.

Washington, who holds the indoor high and low hurdle records, is entered in the 65-yard low, an event in which he placed second in Lexington with a time of .07.8.

Don Smith cleared the pole vault bar at 12 feet in the district and earned second place in that event qualifying for the state competition.

Buehn and Lovercamp finished second and third respectively in the 880-yard run with times of 2:10.7 and 2:10.8.

Saturday's state meet will complete the Tigers' indoor schedule for the year. Smith-Cotton opens outdoor competition April 2 in Jennie Jaynes Stadium in a dual meet with Mexico.

Short rest was good for Miller

HILTON HEAD ISLAND S.C. (AP) — "The rest was good for me," Johnny Miller said.

"Right now my game is very similar to the way it was after I took that time off in December then came back at the Crosby," Miller continued.

The U.S. Open champion won a record three tournaments in a row after that December lay-off and, after a three-week rest, returned to action here with a four-under-par 67 that gave him the first round lead Thursday in the $200,000 Sea Pines Heritage Golf Classic.

"I don't have any weaknesses in my game now," said Miller, who had a one-stroke advantage over Allen Miller, no relation.

Allen slogged and sloshed through whipping winds and intermittent rains to a 68, three under par on the 6,655 yards of marsh, reclaimed swamp and moss-bearded cypress groves that make up the Harbour Town Golf Links.

Had the worst view but enjoyed goal the most

By FRED ROTHENBERG
AP Sports Writer

The guy on the ice with the worst view of Pat Quinn's tying goal got the biggest kick from it.

He's Atlanta goalie Phil Myre and he's the same guy who had the best view of Rod Seiling's goal — after it got by him.

Seiling beat Myre on a slap-shot from inside the blue line with 1:52 left in the game, but Myre had just 17 seconds to be upset. The action promptly shifted to the other end of the ice and Quinn scored with 1:35 remaining to give the Flames a 5-5 National Hockey League tie with the New York Rangers Thursday night.

"It was a good shot," said Myre speaking of Seiling's drive. "I thought it was wide, but it nicked the post and came in.

"You can bet I was the happiest person in the Omni when Quinn tied it for us later."

Elsewhere in the NHL, the Boston Bruins blanked the St. Louis Blues 7-0; the Philadelphia Flyers trimmed the Vancouver Canucks 3-1, and the Los Angeles Kings downed the California Seals 6-3.

The tie moved the fourth-place Flames six points ahead of St. Louis in their battle for the fourth and final playoff spot in the NHL West and moved the Rangers to within two points of second-place Montreal in the NHL East.

Bruins 7, Blues 0

St. Louis took 20 shots at Boston goalie Gilles Gilbert and he stopped them all, blanking the Blues for the third straight game.

Flyers 3, Canucks 1

Rick MacLeish scored two goals and the first-place Flyers moved 10 points ahead of the Chicago Black Hawks in the NHL West.

American League West preview

Pitching problems plague White Sox

SARASOTA, Fla. (AP) — If the pitching comes even close to the power, the Chicago White Sox may make a run — all the way — at the world champion Oakland A's this season.

But with spring training on the wane, Manager Chuck Tanner's mound staff is not exactly knocking anybody dead and the club reportedly was eyeing Sparky Lyle, discontented New York Yankee relief ace.

Beyond starters Wilbur Wood, Stan Bahnsen and Jim Kaat and the good bullpen duo of Terry Forster and Cy Acosta, Tanner is scratching to round out his planned nine-man pitching staff.

The regular White Sox line-up should be as formidable as Tanner enthusiastically claims with ex-Chicago Cub star Ron Santo joining such power men as Dick Allen, Bill Melton, Carlos May and Ken Henderson.

The Sox led the American League's West Division last season for 51 straight days until calamity struck in June with Allen suffering a leg fracture and Henderson a wrenched knee requiring surgery.

About the same time, Wood nose-dived after a 13-3 start to finish 24-20 and the Sox finally wobbled home fifth, 17 games behind the West champion A's.

Santo, tabbed primarily as a designated hitter, has worked out at first base as well as third base and obviously will be a high-priced backup man at both positions.

Tanner announced his starting line-up in January and there has been no change — yet.

It includes: Pat Kelly rf; Henderson cf; Allen lb; Melton 3b; Santo dh; May rf; Jorge Orta 2b; Ed Herrmann c, and Bucky Dent ss.

However, the extremely promising Dent, 22, this week was mentioned as trade bait for the Yankees' Lyle.

Dent got in 40 games last season as Tanner experimented with youth late in the campaign and was impressive as he batted .248 and, in one stretch, handled 101 consecutive chances at short without an error.

This spring, he got the call ahead of veteran Eddie Leon but Tanner conceded the Sox still would have a pennant chance with Leon or Luis Alvarado handling short.

The big man in the Sox lineup, obviously, is Allen, who has been setting his own spring pace with Tanner's blessing. Allen, the AL's Most Valuable Player in 1972, was batting .310 with 16 home runs and 41 runs batted in when he was hurt last June 29 in a first-base collision.

Tanner's No. 2 starter, Bahnsen, finished 18-21 last season. Kaat, the winningest active, left-handed AL pitcher, was purchased from the Minnesota Twins last August and wound up with a composite 15-13 mark.

Battling for the remaining four pitching berths, beyond Forster and Acosta, are Bill Moran, draftee from the Red Sox organization; Jim Geddes, Rich Gossage, Bart Johnson and Bill McGlothlin.

A relief pitcher of Lyle's caliber, however, would enable Tanner to tab Forster his No. 4 starter, a spot of growing Sox concern. Lyle, who won five games and saved 27 for the Yankees last season, has reported to the New York camp without a contract.

"DEFENSE!" "DEFENSE!" "DEFENSE!"

In the clutch (as well as in the engine and transmission), Volkswagen's Owner's Security Blanket is the best defense against trouble a car can have.

The blanket covers you for 12 months or 20,000 miles, whichever comes first. During that time if any part is found to be defective in normal use and service, anything except tires and filters, VW will fix it free.

If the repair takes under a half hour, we'll do it while you wait. Or if the repair takes overnight, call for an appointment and we'll lend you a car free.

We'll also give you 3 computer check-ups free.

At Volkswagen, we have a goal to keep our owners moving. So in our case, being covered by the blanket means you won't be sidelined.

FIAT X1/9

FIAT X1-9. The car of the future. Now. It is the product of three quarters of a century of FIAT experience and excellence. No car in its class has ever been accorded a more approving reception by independent experts. Every major motor car publication has reviewed it, acclaimed it and recommended it not only as a resounding styling success, but as an impressive performer and a superlative value as well. Here are the facts — for your own appraisal; Mid-engine—a 1290 cc. inline 4 mounted transversely; 4-speed fully synchromeshed transmission; unit chassis and body including roof-rollbar structure; rack and pinion steering; disc brakes on all wheels; complete instrumentation; removable roof. And then, there is the look of the FIAT X1-9—far advanced, innovative, provocative, striking, seductive. The body is the creation of Nuccio Bertone, the designer of many of the most renowned and respected sports cars in the world. Discover a new star of the first magnitude. Discover the brilliant FIAT X1-9.

Five year plan underway

HOLLYWOOD, Calif. — There was a time, in the mid-50s, when Hollywood expected great things from Marion Ross. She had increasingly important roles in many movies then and starring parts on many big TV shows.

She was married and had two children. That changed her outlook on life, gave her some new values.

"I was well embarked on my career when I married and had Jimmy and Ellen," she says. "I never completely abandoned acting but for a time it was definitely second-string. So, naturally, my career suffered."

About a year ago, she decided it was time to institute a new five-year plan. When she was young, she had guided her life through a series of such plans and they had worked for her. It was time, she felt, to get back into the swing of things in a big way.

The first things she felt she should do was a "significant" play. She accomplished that, starring in Tennessee Williams' "Summer and Smoke" in San Diego. That was the turning point.

Now she's starring, with Tom Bosley, Ron Howard and the others in ABC's new hit Happy Days. She plays the mother in that nostalgic look at a '50s family.

She likes the series and thinks its appeal is that times were simpler then.

"Today's kids," she says, "like the idea of more positive parental figures. My own teen years were in the '40s but they weren't that much different from the '50s. I spent my teens in a small town — Albert Lea, Minnesota — and I did all the usual teen things, proms and cars and all that."

She objects to those who say that Happy Days is an obvious steal from the successful feature film, "American Graffiti."

"We are not a rip-off of 'American Graffiti,'" she says. We did two pilots for this show. The first one was shot before 'Graffiti' was made. Ron Howard did our pilot before he did 'Graffiti.'

"The pilot didn't sell. Then, when 'Graffiti' was such a big hit they dusted it off again and reshot it."

Marion says that her two children — Jimmy is 14 and Ellen is 11 — both watch and enjoy Happy Days.

Jimmy is interested in film, at the moment. He shoots his own movies. Not long ago, he asked his mother what she thought he should do with his life.

"He has many other interests," the proud mother said, "but I encouraged him to stay with film. I think it's a wonderful field for a young man today and it's broad enough so he can do many different things within it."

Black actor proud of work's results

HOLLYWOOD (NEA) — Black pictures have matured. Witness some of the fine recent and coming films, such as "Five on the Black Hand Side" and "Claudine." And, simultaneously, black actors are maturing, too.

"I'll do no more black exploitative films," says Yaphet Kotto. "They're OK if you're hungry or just starting out but I'm doing OK and I'm not a kid. I'm an actor."

He said it with pride. He's an actor and recognized as such now. There was a time when he would do anything — almost anything — to get a start, make a few bucks, to feed his family. But now he's an actor, proud of his talent and his craft — and he's being choosy.

His biggest recent credit was the James Bond film, "Live and Let Die." He did "Truck Turner," with Isaac Hayes. Coming up is "The Treasure," with Cornel Wilde. Then he goes into the big one, "Report on the Commissioner."

He says he'll do one more film after that and then stop.

"I want a rest," he says. "I've been going like blazes for seven, no, nine years. I deserve a rest. I've made enough bread in the last two, three years to cool it for six months."

He says he'll just forget the whole Hollywood scene for a while. He'll do other things, play some basketball, do some running, go to New York.

"People in this town will talk movies 24 hours a day if you let them," he says. "Even weekends are consumed by this business. I've got to get out."

He says he never realized the importance of movies outside California. Here, where movies are the backyard industry, nobody gives actors much of a tumble.

"But I went to New York," he says, "and everybody was stopping me for my autograph. I went to a restaurant to get something to eat and they wouldn't give me a check. I said to myself, 'How long has this been going on?'"

"But I adjusted to it quickly. I came back to Los Angeles and the people don't act the same way. Go into a restaurant here, baby, and you pay that check."

"That 'being famous' thing is a whole trip in itself."

I first met Yaphet Kotto in Mexico City when he was doing a bit in a Dean Martin picture, "Five Card Stud." He says that was a long time ago.

"I've been through a lot of emotional and mental changes since 'Five Card Stud,'" he says. "I know where I am now, in 1974. At the time we first met, I couldn't see through the claptrap and the phoniness, the facade of the business. The material things and the associations used to be important to me."

"But, you see, there are those who make you think all that is important. I've grown up. I've wised up. I used to drink — not much — but I gave it all up. That's the opening card in many cases. It comes with growing and I've grown."

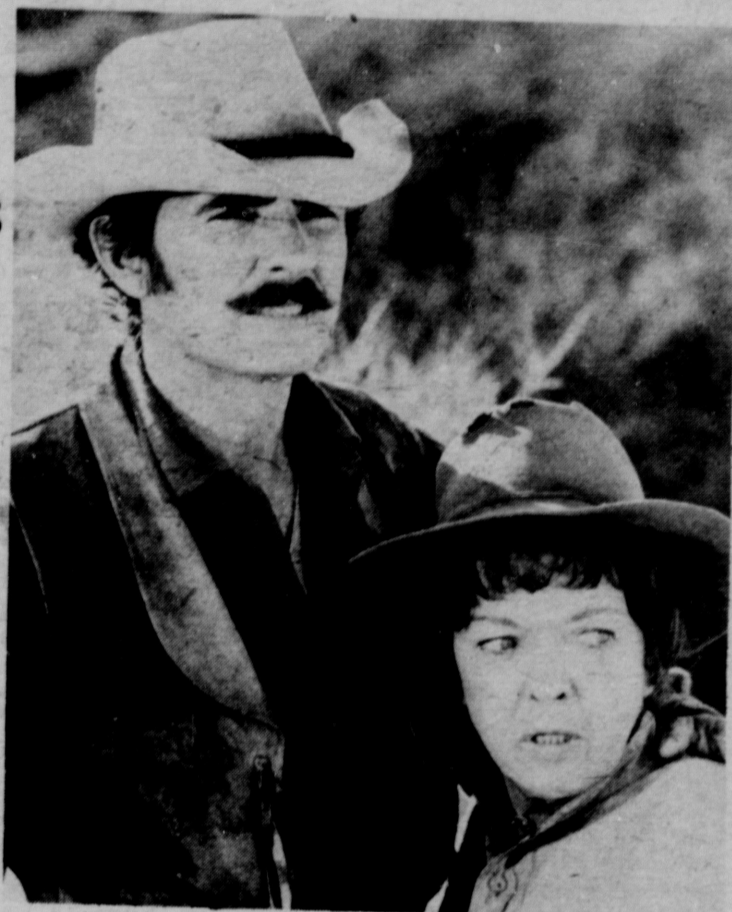

He never believed that what has happened to him — becoming a movie star — would happen.

TV scout reports

They were shooting some scenes for Greg Garrison's Music Country U.S.A. at Greg's ranch near Los Angeles. And all the ranchhands had a treat because there was a lot of high-priced talent on hand.

When they weren't shooting, Wayne Newton, Mac Davis, Buck Owens, Tom T. Hall and Dionne Warwick got together in Garrison's tack room for an impromptu song fest.

Hollywood never wastes a thing. If you're sharp-eyed, you may notice some similarities between the basic police station set on The Rookies and the one Glenn Ford used to prance around on Cade's County. It's the same set — the studio just brought in some different chairs.

Comedy western

Dennis Weaver and Ida Lupino star as a charming outlaw and the leader of a band of not-so-helpless women in the rollicking Western comedy-adventure "Female Artillery" on the Wednesday Movie of the Week at 7:30 p.m. March 27 on KCBJ-TV and the ABC Television Network.

Ask TV scout

A good man is hard to find

Does Hallmark plan another showing of "You're A Good Man, Charlie Brown" in the near future? — Len Leshin, Corpus Christi, Tex.

There is nothing on NBC's schedule at this writing. But we agree with you that the show deserves a repeat. Maybe if enough people request one, Hallmark will schedule it.

Information please

You gave an answer regarding Monte Markham in The Second Hundred Years and you don't seem well informed. He did not play a dual role. He played the grandfather who had been frozen in Alaska for a long time, but his grandson was played by Arthur O'Connell. — Donna M., Chicago, Ill.

Not quite, Donna. Monte did play a dual role. He played the father of Arthur O'Connell and he played the son of Arthur O'Connell. That was the plot gimmick: the grandfather and the grandson were identical. OK?

Fielding Fields question

My friend and I have a bet about Sally Field. How old is she and did she ever play Gidget? — Angela Croft, Greenville, S.C.

Sally will be 28 this year. She played Gidget for the one year (1965) that the series was on TV. She is presently playing The Girl With Something Extra.

Dennis the non-menace

What is the name of the actor who plays Dennis on The New Dick Van Dyke Show? Where can I write him? — D.G., Chicago, Ill.

Dennis is played by Barry Gordon, a child actor grown to manhood, but not grown too tall. (He was on Broadway in "A Thousand Clowns" and repeated his role in the film version of the popular comedy.) Write him in care of the Van Dyke show at CBS Studio Center, 4024 Radford Ave., Studio City, Calif. 901604.

Music, maestro

What is the title of the music they play at the beginning of Masterpiece Theatre? Is it available on a recording? — P.W.H., Corpus Christi, Tex.

The theme is "Fanfare" by J.J. Mauret. It's on a Nonesuch recording numbered H 71009.

Autograph please

Is there any way of getting an autographed picture of Mary Tyler Moore? My boss is crazy about her and I'd like to give him a present. — Jolyn Reimann, Glendale Heights, Ill.

Write Mary at CBS Studio Center, 4024 Radford Ave., Studio City, Calif. 91604. Her show is out of production for a while, so there may be a delay. But you'll eventually get a photo of her for your boss. Aren't you a considerate employee!

Bashful queen

Singer Loretta Lynn, queen of country music, doesn't appear often on television because she has difficulty reading the cue cards. She had only four years of schooling and is self-conscious about her inability to read. She needn't be. She has a town all her own, a one-horse hamlet called Hurricane Mills in Tennessee, population 250. She has her own 19-room house on 3,600 acres of land and is married.

(UPI)

Ask TV scout

Bewitching question

How old is Elizabeth Montgomery and who is her husband? — C.C., Batavia, Ill.
Elizabeth, in her early 40s, is presently separated from husband Bill Asher. She was formerly married to "Gig Young."

Majors-ity of one

Was Lee Majors of The Six Million Dollar Man also on The Big Valley? Where can I write to him? — Kathy Meston, Galsgow, Mont.
Lee was in both series. Write him at Universal Studios, Universal City, Calif. 91608.

Bet-for man

My boy friend bet me $100 that Earl Holliman played Stoney Bruke on the TV series by that name. I contend it was Jack Lord. Who is correct? — L.S.D., Chicago, Ill.
Collect $100. L.D.S. because Lord did play Stoney Burke. Earl Holliman was in a series with a rodeo background (like Burke's), but it was called Wide Country.

Sunshine

I recently saw the movie Sunshine and thought it was a beautiful story. What book was it taken from? And who did the music for the picture?

— A.T.A., Muskegon, Mich.

Sunshine was not taken from a book but was inspired by a story which ran in a Los Angeles newspaper supplement well over a year ago. The story was about the dying young woman who left a legacy of tapes to her daughter. Many of the words on the tape in the film were the woman's own words. John Denver composed the songs.

More Sunshine

My friend insists that the recent TV movie Message to My Daughter was a sequel to Sunshine. I say not. Also, who played the male leads in each one? — T. Cole, Dodson, Mont.

Message to My Daughter was inspired by the same story which inspired Sunshine. Sunshine stayed fairly close to the actual facts in the real-life drama. Message to My Daughter was a more fictionalized version of the story. Cliff De Young was the young man in Sunshine and Martin Sheen was the lead in Message to My Daughter.

His own timetable

Lyricist Hal David, who has turned out 14 numbers for the upcoming musical "Brainchild" due shortly on Broadway, has done the job with a new partner, Michel Legrand. "We're just following our own different timetables," David says of his long-time partner Burt Bacharach. "We haven't stopped working together because of any overt thing that may have happened." (AP)

Hal David going his own way

By WILLIAM GLOVER

AP Drama Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — What's Hal David doing on Broadway without Burt Bacharach, his longtime songwriting buddy?

"We're just following our own, different timetables at this point," the lyricist says, softly pooh-poohing personality abrasion. "We haven't stopped working together because of any overt thing that may have happened."

In tandem with Michel Legrand, David has turned out 14 numbers for a new musical, "Brainchild," which rather oddly takes place in the mind of a woman tunesmith. It is scheduled to open April 15 at the Ambassador Theater.

One song is called "Just a Little Space Can be a Growing Place." For some showbiz initiates, the title's relevance to creative actuality could be more than coincidental.

During 16 years of collaboration, highlighted by 20 million records sold, the public did tend to identify the hit parade more with the charismatic Bacharach personality than with his retiring, moon-faced partner.

Several of the team's biggest favorites, including "Alfie" and "What the World Needs Now," would never have happened, according to David, if he hadn't first found the exact words to inspire the subsequent melody.

"I think maybe in the beginning it bothered me," he says carefully. "Perhaps I may not have understood it. We did have a great success together. I had a lot of rewards from it, inner as well as, you know — a lot of satisfaction. I have really no complaints, doing what I like to do and doing it pretty well."

David has had a lot of collaborators and doesn't rule out eventual reunion with Mr. B.

The suggestion to do a score for "Brainchild" came his way about a year ago when he was starting some creative diversification. He and Bacharach had just done the score for the film "Lost Horizon." He'd also done songs with Henry Mancini for another movie, "Oklahoma Crude," and with Frank DeVol for "Emperor of the North."

"I'd wanted to do another Broadway show," says David, who teamed with Bacharach on "Promises, Promises" in 1968. Maxine Klein, a professor at Boston University, invited him to a workshop performance of her "Brainchild" story that was temporarily embellished with a Bacharach-David miscellany.

David regards himself as a "people writer — I'm interested in emotions rather than ideas, romantic rather than political. I couldn't do an 'Of Thee I Sing.' I'm more inclined toward 'Carousel.'"

His oldest brother, Mack David, already was established in the pop song ranks with "Moon Love" and "On the Isle of May" — a situation that didn't exactly ease his own debut.

"It was helpful getting me into offices, but people tended to take me not seriously, like I was the kid brother," he recalls.

The David brothers were born in Brooklyn. The parents, from Poland and Austria, ran a delicatessen. The only evidence of artistic yearning was a family fiddle which the sons learned to play at a quarter a lesson. A third brother, who came along between Mack and Hal, subsequently went off to a career in insurance.

In 1942, at age 21, Hal David was drafted and ended up with Maj. Maurice Evans' entertainment unit in the Pacific.

"The army really changed my life," the lyricist says. His first song writing partner was Roy Adams.

Soon after his military hitch he was writing special material and songs for Sammy Kaye.

"I've done a few hundred songs," David declines strict accounting, "because I've always been a workhorse."

"I approach the job like a laborer. One day it's easier, another day it's harder. As a rule, once I start on a job, it flows with me."

"Then I may stumble into one line."

"I used to worry. Every once in a while I'd run into a dry period. I used to be concerned about finding myself without ideas, a little panic. But I've gone into and gotten out of these periods so many times over the years that I don't get concerned any more."

To telecast opera over Channel 12 (9)

ST. LOUIS — "La Rondine" (the Swallow), a rarely performed opera by Giacomo Puccini, will be telecast at 7 p.m. Monday, March 25 on Channel 12(9).

"La Rondine" is a production of the Canadian Broadcasting Corp. and features Canadian-born Metropolitan Opera star Teresa Stratas singing in the role of Magda, a beautiful and restless courtesan. Anastasios Vrenios is Ruggiero, Magda's young lover, and Soprano Barbara Shuttleworth of the New York City Opera is Lisette, Magda's vivacious maid. Brian Priestman, music director of the Denver Symphony Orchestra, conducts a 71-member orchestra, drawn largely from the Toronto Symphony.

The opera is set in Paris in 1870, when Magda, the mistress of a wealthy banker, Rambaldo, lives in bored luxury. However, while entertaining her Bohemian friends she meets and is attracted to Ruggiero. When she and Ruggiero, meeting secretly, are discovered by Rambaldo, the two lovers declare their love and go off to live happily at the French Riviera.

However, when Ruggiero presses Magda to marry him, she reveals the truth about her life with Rambaldo. Though she loves Ruggiero, she decides not to marry him, and like the swallow ("La Rondine"), she flees to Paris and Rambaldo.

'Old newcomer' makes the grade

By MARIA JUAREZ
NEW YORK — A young man captured our love for satire in 'Steambath' and tickled our funny bones as R mon in Calucci's Dept. He's been acting since the age of 10 but for most people he is, in his words, "Wow! Who's that cat that just came on the scene?"

'That cat' is Jose Perez, a talented New York actor who will brighten our screens again March 29 when CBS airs Aces Up, one of the pilots vying for a series spot in the fall TV schedule.

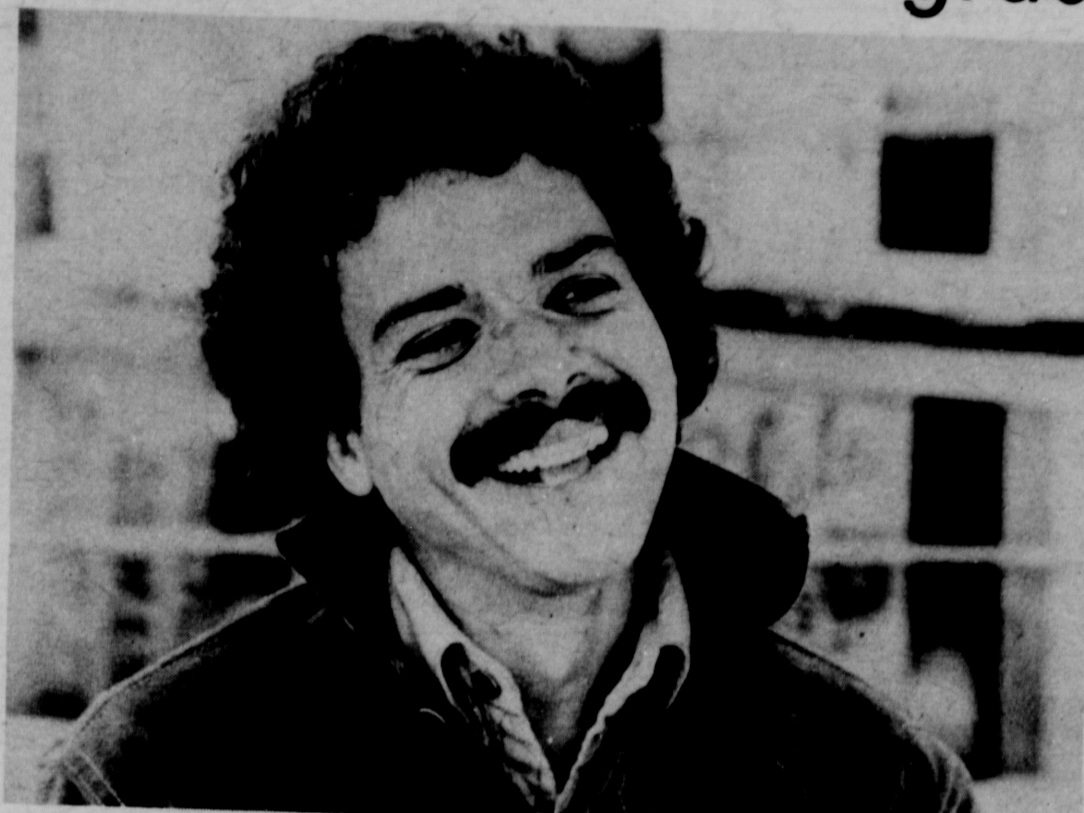

Shot on location in California, Aces Up takes place in the midwest. "We had a good time shooting the pilot," says Perez. "We spent almost a week in the desert, in a place called Happy Mountain, and in the Mojave. It's beautiful there, so still, with just the wind sweeping through."

The show tells the story of two men who deal in racing cars and their relationship to each other. "My friend Raoul Julia," says Perez, "plays an engineer who works with one of the big motor companies. He and I get together and form a little company called Ace Moving. We have a truck and a garage where we work on stock cars. Raoul is the mechanic and I'm the driver."

"It's a visual comedy," he continues, "kind of like the old Keystone action serials, with the warmth of the relationship between these two people. I think it will sell."

Perez feels it's important to have someone one works well with (he and Julia had a successful run together in New York in 'Two Gentlemen of Verona'). "If you work well with someone," he says, "and can take off each other, then whatever the material is, you can make it work."

Perez' start in show business was less than typical. "When I was 10," he remembers, "'South Pacific' was running on Broadway. The show ran for years and the kids would get too big after a while and have to be replaced. A counselor at a boys' club I used to go to used to get kids for the show. One day he saw me in the street and asked to speak to my parents because he thought I'd be good for the play. So I auditioned and have been in the business since."

He went from one role into another, then another. "I couldn't miss in those days ... it's now that I have a problem!" he shouts with a gleam in his eye.

Born in Puerto Rico, Perez grew up in Hell's Kitchen on New York's West Side, tough going for any kid but he really felt the pressure. "I came here when I was eight, and I had a lot of trouble in school. Being in the business and going to school at the same time was very difficult for me, too. Then in my teens I went through a really bad period and I just couldn't handle it."

Those were lean years for him in the working world as well but he managed to do enough to keep him going. When he turned 20, Perez decided it was time to think seriously about his future and began taking acting lessons.

"For a long time," he recalls, "I was just kind of groping, looking. I thought I knew the work and was executing it well but there was an element missing. When I got into 'Two Gentlemen' I found it. That play was a fantastic experience and it really brought out our talent. It gave me the freedom that I needed which I had never known as an actor.

TV Scout gets a lot of questions about this. No, they are not Gage and De Soto. They are Randolph Mantooth and Kevin Tighe, a pair of convincing actors who, for the role, did some training with the fire department's paramedics.

"Now I know how to get it for myself," he adds, "no matter what the material is. I know how to communicate with an audience."

"The thing is," he says pensively, "you don't have to be perfect ... just human."

Scripps sign of changing times

HOLLYWOOD (NEA) — Times change, and as an indication of that change, there is Ted Scripps.

Officially, he is Edward W. Scripps II, and he comes from a family with newspapering in its blood. He is, at the moment, vice-president of the E.W. Scripps Co., which is only a part of his other journalistic duties. But, more and more, he has become enamored of motion pictures and television.

In June, he will move his family west, from Greenwich, Conn., where he was a commuter to New York City, to Carson City, Nev., where he'll be closer to the Hollywood mines.

"At the start," he says, "my interest in film was mostly in research and development; I've always loved gadgets. I have a division — S-C Systems — which is into the hardware end of the business. We make special projectors for planetariums, that sort of thing."

However, his fascination with films and filming is growing. This is logical since it is close to what he's always been involved with in the past, communicating with people.

Now, in partnership with Jerald Clemans and Frank Capra Jr., he's formed Capra-

SC. In the seven months since the company was formed, it has gone ahead and there is a full closet of plans and projects.

"I feel," Scripps says, "that TV in the future will do a lot to change reading habits. And it will further change the role of the newspaper. Papers will become more and more devoted to in-depth reporting. The public will get interested in some subject because people have seen it on TV and want to read more about it."

"People are becoming more selective in how they spend their time. So newspapers are no longer competing with each other, as they once did. They are competing with television and movies and skiing magazines or whatever."

Capra-SC is planning to start its film career with a story called "Sweet Promised Land," a story of Nevada sheepherders. The screenplay is now being written and the movie will be financed and, they hope, filmed in Nevada.

Other projects in the works include "The Last Free Man," from a Niven Busch screenplay; a TV documentary, "Celluloid Horse," which is the history of the horse in westerns; an untitled story set in Latin America, and "The Wrinkle in Time," from an award-winning children's book.

Scripps-Clemans also has a system of showing spherical motion pictures called Showsphere, which Scripps hopes will eventually go into standard movie theaters.

As a result, Scripps finds himself devoting more and more time to his film work, less and less to his newspaper commitments. He sees this trend continuing and says that he will henceforth, "concentrate my efforts for the E.W. Scripps Co. to being a director and owner."

Lucy has set new goals for herself

By EVE SHARBUTT
AP Newsfeatures Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — What can be added to stories about television's favorite red-haired millionaire businesswoman and mother of two?

Lucille Ball keeps making additions. She has much to say for herself these days as star of the film musical "Mame."

During a week's promotion tour here she averaged 40 interviews a day. Some of those were due, she said, to her decision to end her weekly television series, "Here's Lucy," the most recent of her shows. They began in 1951 with Desi Arnaz and she's been on TV every week since then.

"Of course, after 47 interviews, I found I was talking to myself at the end of the day," Miss Ball added, between bites of scrambled eggs. She had returned to her sunny Waldorf Towers suite after a morning television interview.

She took out a compact to refresh her makeup, took out a pair of false eyelashes and attached them to a lamp. "Won't that give the maid a turn," said the strawberry-redhead, whose age is given as anywhere from 61 to 65, depending on the source.

"I always played the working girl, the housewife," Miss Ball said of her television roles. "I thought it was fun to get dressed up once in a while, but not all the time. My own clothes are made to my design in my own workrooms."

She admits it took a lot of talking at first to get her into "Mame."

The actress appeared on television for more than 20 years and did a Broadway play in 1960. Her last film was "Yours, Mine and Ours" with Henry Fonda in 1968.

"Family scripts are hard to find and they're what I look for. Some people should be ashamed of the things they're doing today. Look at Marlon Brando. That someone of his stature should appear in 'Last Tango' is disgusting."

"People know better than to send me scripts like some of the stuff that is out-and-out ridiculous," she added.

"Where are the values? I remember when I was doing 'Wildcat' in New York I was sent two movie scripts in the same week: 'Manchurian Candidate,' and 'Oh, Dad, Poor Dad.' I was numb!"

What she does want to do is a film based on Diamond Jim Brady and Lillian Russell, with Jackie Gleason as Diamond Jim.

And now "Mame"

Lucille Ball, whose "Lucy" shows have sparkled on television for over 20 years, is now indefatigably promoting another aspect of her professional life. She's photographed here in New York on a recent visit to talk about her starring role in the film musical, "Mame." She's devoting much time to selling the film, and plans to include trips to Tokyo and London. Meanwhile, reruns will keep "Lucy" on home screens for years to come, although no more new shows will be made. (AP)

"But he's not fat enough now. He doesn't look jolly any more. We'll have to wait until he puts on more weight," she said.

Lucy has six years to go on her contract with CBS and may do some specials for the network. She isn't saying what the future holds.

But she will talk about the kind of series she pioneered for TV.

"We filmed in four days and had the most routine, easy schedule anyone ever had in television. I lean very heavily on nepotism. My children work for me. My writers have been with the show 20 years. It's a business I know and it's simple to me now. I hate to call a halt to it."

"But I want very much to help sell 'Mame' and that will take time. You can't just run off and do it in a weekend. It takes a month or so at a time," she added.

Trips to Tokyo and London are planned as part of the film's promotion. Then she will return to husband Gary Morton, now appearing in the film "Lenny," and one of their three homes — Beverly Hills, Palm Springs or the condominium at Snomass near Aspen, Colo.

She is proud that her children are working. Desi

Jr., 21, is appearing in films, and Lucie, 24, will do a road tour of the musical "Seesaw."

The woman who started her career in a chorus line, did radio serials, posed for cigarette ads and appeared in leggy films of the '40s won't admit to being a business genius.

"All I ever did was the 'Lucy' show and happily it was a success, a good stepping stone. We pioneered with that and our idiosyncrasy about putting the show on film. Now everybody does it, but we thought of it as a kind of home movie we'd have forever."

She and first husband Desi Arnaz also got 100 per cent residuals on the show. It made them rich. They were among the first to insist their show should be filmed in Los Angeles.

"We wanted to stay home. We'd been married 10 years, were about to have a baby and we didn't want to come to New York. People think of my first husband as a Cuban bongo player. He was a very, very good businessman as well and it nearly put him away. I inherited a lot of benefits from his work."

German television is on the telephone asking for an interview, and another reporter is knocking at the suite door. A trim, sophisticated Lucille Ball, tirelessly "up," pats her red curls.

Reruns are golden, she says, and there's plenty yet to do.

Plays daddy to the Cowboys

BURBANK, Calif. — David Dortort is sitting at his usual table at The Burbank Studios (ne Warner Brothers) and discussing why he did what he did with The Cowboys, the charming new ABC-TV series, adapted from the John Wayne movie about a cowpoke who rounds up kids to help him on a cattle drive when the adults all disappear to other chores.

Originally the ranch was somewhere in the northeast.

"I felt it was necessary to place the ranch near a town and give the town a different place in space and time. After all, one of the boys is obviously Latin and his name is Cimarron. How did he get so far north? So we've set the town near the Mexican border."

"This gives us added conflicts since we have the Anglo culture and the Latin culture. Also, since Moses Gunn is one of our stars, we have the black culture. He generally is the one in the middle."

Dortort also was upset that the woman's role in the pilot, which had been summarily rejected by the network, was not written well. "A woman's role must be adequate. In the pilot, there she was with nothing to do and the concentration was on the heavies. Why not concentrate on her problem?"

"Beverly Garland, who played the part, is a fine actress but she literally had no scene to play. Also I felt she couldn't convey the warmth necessary. We needed a different kind of woman who could become a surrogate mother to seven boys."

David credits casting director Sylvia Gold with suggesting Diana Douglas, who had just appeared in a Kung Fu at the studio.

"She's such a marvelous actress. She is stage-trained and she uses her voice as a music instrument — I'm a big stage buff," Dortort says. "But it was with some trepidation that I brought her in to ask if she would consider being in a western. 'Oh, I love westerns,' she told me. 'I'd love to do it.'"

A novelist before he came to TV, Dortort's publisher is constantly asking him to write another novel. But, and he smiles as he contemplates it, "I'm working on a play."

TV Scout Reports

Mary Cox, the wife of Apple's Way's Ronny Cox, is writing a script for her husband's series.

Another of the Apple's Wayfarers, Lee McCain, who plays the wife and mother on the show, says she grew up being scared to do anything. She wanted to be a writer, but was scared of writing. She wanted to sing, but was scared of singing. The only thing that didn't scare her was acting, so here she is.

The production of Shaw's Saint Joan at the Los Angeles Music Center looks like a TV cast. Sarah Miles plays the title role but in the cast are Richard Thomas (The Waltons), John Schuck (McMillan and Wife), Keene Curtis (formerly a regular on The Magician), James Haughton (of Faraday and Son), plus actors like Robert Cornthwaite, Scott Thomas and Barry Kroeger, who are seen on TV often.

For The Waltons fans be assured that young Richard Thomas did a fine job creating a totally different character as the Dauphin. He's a very talented young actor.

The audience at the opening of Gardner McKay's lovely, lyrical play, "Sea Marks," was very television-oriented. Among those on hand were Carl Betz, Robert Brown, Peter Mark Richman, Samantha Eggar, Laurence Luckinbill and Nancy O'Connor, who is Carroll O'Connor's wife.

Producer Pierre Cossette tossed a champagne and hot dog party prior to the Grammy Awards and also to salute the forthcoming CBS-TV special, Grammy Salutes the Oscar, a cavalcade of songs nominated for Oscars. Among others who will appear: John Wayne.

Anyway this joke came out of the party: What happens when you don't pay dues to your exorcist? Simple. You get re-possessed.

Dave Toma has been out on tour, speaking in behalf of law and order (he's the real-life cop the ABC-TV series Toma is based on), and he broke records in Chicago, New York, Philadelphia and New Mexico. He also was honored by the governor of Ohio.

If the voice of Barry Newman, who is in a pilot film called Night Games, sounds familiar it's because he does a lot of commercial voice-overs. While he was filming the movie at Paramount, a New York ad agency sent a sound crew to the set so that during a break he could do a voice for a headache remedy.

A schedule like that could make a fellow need a headache remedy.

When David Carradine showed up to do his guest appearance on John Denver's ABC-TV pilot special, David was asked if he was as good a musician (he was singing and playing the guitar on the program) as he is at Kung Fu. He said, "Kung Fu experts think of me as a musician and musicians think of me as a Kung Fu expert." Ah, so!

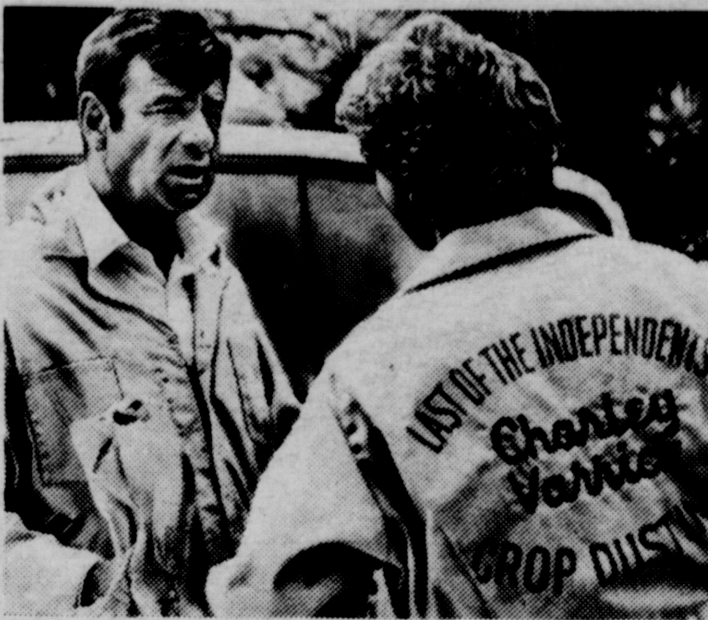

Gene Roddenberry says that a segment of Star Trek, for the animated Saturday morning series, could never have been done as a live show. In it, Captain Kirk and Mr. Spock are transformed into aquatic creatures. Roddenberry says, "It's a show that would have been very expensive and very difficult to execute in live action. But in animation we can add gills as easily as we can add wardrobe."

Remember Gardner McKay? He was television's handsome skipper of the Tiki in the popular series Adventures in Paradise. After that series left TV Gardner lived in Europe for a time and began writing.

He has just had a play open in Hollywood, "Sea Marks," and it's a beautiful theatrical experience. The play is tender, funny, poignant, honest and filled with poetry. Joshua Bryant, who is superb, and Jane Merrow (CQ), who is seen on TV a lot, play the two characters, an Irish sailor and a Welsh girl, who is a career woman in Liverpool. Their love story plus his love for the sea form the tale which will make a great film.

Just as an example of the poetry in McKay's writing, sample this poem from the hero: "Give me your hands and I'll hold them warm. Your hair will surround me so that I lose my place. Tell me your dreams if you remember dreams and, if I can, I will unravel them."

"CHARLEY VARRICK" (2B)

Explanation

Not exactly his line of work, Walter Matthau instructs his accomplice Andy Robinson how to blow up their bank robbery getaway car in the Siegel film, "Charley Varrick," a University picture now showing at the State Fair Twin Cinema. The action drama was produced and directed by Don Siegel from a screenplay by Howard Rodman and Dean Riesner, based on the novel by John Reese, "The Looters."

Casting director Joyce Selznick was asked to supply a pretty girl for the role of a 15-year-old in a TV movie. She flipped through a batch of photos of candidates, submitted by agents, and her eye was caught by one attractive youngster. Without looking at the girl's name, she asked her secretary to call the girl's agent and have her come in for an interview.

When the girl arrived, they talked. The girl said her name was Leigh Curtis and casually mentioned that she was the daughter of Janet Leigh and Tony Curtis.

The curious thing about all this is that, years ago, it was Joyce Selznick who discovered Leigh's father, Tony Curtis.

The Pete and Tillie pilot, if it sells, will not be called Pete and Tillie. Even though Universal paid a lot of money for the title, which was used for the successful Carol Burnett-Walter Matthau movie, they have elected to change it, in honor of its star. It will be The Cloris Leachman Show.

Ernest Borgnine was worried about what the Lombardi family would think of his portrayal of the late Vince Lombardi on a TV special. But the family's reaction turned out to be a good one — the coach's widow was so pleased she asked to meet him.

Burt Bacharach has a new collaborator. Neil (Doc) Simon — the man who wrote

"The Odd Couple" and "The Sunshine Boys," among many hits — is writing lyrics for Burt these days.

Cloris Leachman says the offer for her to do the pilot of Pete and Tillie — since renamed The Cloris Leachman Show — was exciting because it involved a lot of money.

"Of course," she says. "That's only if it sells. If it doesn't sell, it's just a piece of paper with some big numbers on it."

Martin Sheen, so good on The Execution of Private Slovik, says he has decided he will not do any more episodic TV, no appearances on regular series.

"They shoot too fast," he says. "I just can't work that fast. I need time to get into a characterization."
